Board's Hands

The receipt of a lengthy telegram from Bishop, Brismann & Company, export accountants hired to investigate the conditions of state industries, a resolution by Senator Lieberbach, Nonpartisan, that a committee be appointed from the senate to confer with the auditing board and make arrangements for receiving the report, and the reading into the journal of the senate of the copy of a telegram sent by the new auditing board in which was stated that C. Polindexter, secretary of the board, was ordered to "keep and hold" all records of the board, featured another day of what Senator William J. Church of Benson county, Nonpartisan, chose to call "marking time until the report is made."

The telegram from the Bishop-Brismann company at St. Paul was received by Lieut. Gov. Isidor W. Folsom, secretary of the senate, at a short time before the senate convened yesterday afternoon. It advised him of the receipt of orders from both the house and the senate for copies of the reports and then quoted a telegram received from C. Polindexter, newly elected secretary of the reorganized auditing board.

From Mr. Polindexter:
The telegram was as follows:
Honorable Senate, the senate of the State of North Dakota Seventeenth Legislative Assembly, Bismarck, N. D.

We have received orders from both the house and the senate to submit copies of our audit report, when completed, to said bodies, respectively. The house resolution, dated January 6, and the senate resolution, dated January 7, we also received the following communication and orders under seal, and dated January 5:

"This is to inform you that the state auditing board, under whose authority you have been working upon the books and records and accounts of the industries of the state, is now constituted of D. C. Polindexter, William J. Lamke and Thomas Hall, and that D. C. Polindexter has been elected secretary of such auditing board, and by adopting resolutions that the secretary shall keep and hold all such books, records, documents, reports and property belonging to said board."

"If you have any property of the auditing board created under section 348 of the constitution of the State of North Dakota, year 1919, as amended, or if you have any reports to make to said auditing board, kindly deliver such property and make such report to the undersigned at his office."

D. C. POLINDER, State Auditor, Secretary of the Auditing Board."

We have replied to the following: Hon. D. C. Polindexter, State Auditor, Secretary of the Auditing Board, Bismarck, N. D.

"Your communication of January 5 received and will meet with our compliance. We have been served with orders from the senate and house to deliver copies of our reports to each. Will your board kindly authorize delivery of one copy of each report to the respective bodies as ordered by them. There will be but three completely typed copies of the report available for delivery. Would be glad to submit one copy thereof to you and to have our representative meet with your honorable body or designated committee for explanation or discussion of our report at time of submission, or any time at your convenience at the usual compensation."

"Respectfully suggested that it would be impractical, unnecessary, involve a prohibitive expense for the state of North Dakota to have the entire number of staff representatives engaged upon the audit present themselves for examination. Respectfully requested that you authorize delivery of report to your body authorized, respective of your firm."

"Bishop-Brismann & Company."

Lieberbach Up.
Immediately following the reading of the telegram, Senator Lieberbach of Dunn county, leaguer, introduced a resolution for a committee of three to confer with the state auditing board. His resolution was as follows:

Whereas the house of representatives passed a resolution asking that the auditing firm of Bishop, Brismann & Company, shall submit its report and audit of the industrial institutions of the state to the speakers, and

Whereas the senate passed a similar resolution requesting Bishop, Brismann & Company to submit its audit and report to the senate and to submit at the same time for examination the persons who made such audit, and

Whereas, by initiated measures the people of this state passed a law which cannot be amended, or changed, or repealed, by resolution of either house, except by a bill properly introduced and passed by a two-thirds majority of all members elected to both houses and the approval by the governor, which makes the state auditors the proper parties to

The hearing in the contest of R. J. List for the seat of Senator Gust Wog, Nonpartisan from Billings county, was started this morning in the Burleigh county court house. Should List win the senate seat, it would give the Independents control of the senate by 25 to 24.

Senator A. M. Hagen and a committee of eight others, with a majority of one Nonpartisan are conducting the hearing. The attorneys for List, Judge W. C. Crawford and J. P. Cain of Dickinson, rested their case after reading depositions taken at Saddle Butte, Indian Springs and Green River.

Wog was declared elected by more than 40 votes. List charges that there was electioneering at the polls; that judges and clerks marked most of the ballots; that Frank Kessel at Saddle Butte alone marked 71 ballots; that the election officials were paid; and that marked ballots were supplied to electors in the homes and at the polls for their guidance. None of the electors questioned could read English and all made depositions, unable to read English, testified, according to his deposition, that he was shown where to place crosses for Nonpartisan candidates; that he took his ballot from his home and put it in the ballot box.

Saw "Marked Ballots."
Mary Prowchew, in a deposition, said she saw marked ballots in the school house at Indian Springs. John Druechuck when questioned at the previous hearing, said that there were papers nailed on the wall at the Indian Springs polls to show him how to vote. Further questioning apparently antagonized Druechuck and he said, through an interpreter: "I never tell my wife the truth and I don't see why I should tell anyone else."

Anne Aneluk, also of Indian Springs, said two men showed her

PRATER NAMED

TO CONVENTIONFormer Representative to Appear in State Meeting for County Leaguers

Frank G. Prater, of Arena, was selected as Burleigh county's representative to the Nonpartisan league state convention here on January 14, at a county mass meeting held in the Burleigh county courthouse yesterday afternoon.

The meeting was called to order by Wm. J. Prater, league county manager. There were no other nominations than Frank G. Prater, formerly a state representative. It was said. There was a time estimated, about 85 persons present, the chairman saying it was a very representative group of the county membership. There were a number of women present, who held a short meeting after the adjournment of the county convention, under the leadership of Miss Aldyth Ward.

There will be 10 persons nominated for the league state committee at the convention to be held here on January 14. Five of them will be chosen as members of the state executive committee. George A. Totten, Jr., at present league state manager, is expected to call the convention to order. The call, however, was signed by the "temporary state committee" of four senators.

Anderson Will Preside Over
Men Who Consider Agricultural Bills

Speaker Twitchell yesterday afternoon announced the appointment of many important committees. He made no announcement as to when the rest of the committees would be appointed. Most of the committee chairmen appointed are Independent but Maddock of Mountrail, drew the important temperance committee and other leaguers fared well in their assignments.

Burleigh Gets Two
Two Burleigh county members received chairmanships. Victor L. Anderson of Still, was made the head of the agricultural committee, right now one of the most vital and essential of any legislation affecting co-operative organization will come before him. Mr. Anderson is also a member of the committee of Farmers Union, appointed to frame legislation beneficial to co-operatives. L. E. Heaton of McKezie, drew the chairmanship of the committee on rules, which was important this time because the house reverted back to the 1915 rules instead of adopting those used by the last two sessions.

Heads State Affairs
Martin Olson of Devils Lake, who has had long experience in public affairs, was selected for the chairmanship of the state affairs committee. Maddock of Mountrail, who is a former chairman of that committee, was also appointed to this committee. Starke of Stark, who is the only attorney in the house outside of the speaker, as was expected was made the presiding officer of the judiciary committee.

Graham of Barnes, who is an official of the state bankers association and is well-known all over the state, was consistently chosen as committee head on banks.

Golden Valley drew the chairmanship of the committee on education, Representative Kitchen being selected for the job.

The appropriations chairmanship went to William Watt of Cass, one of the independent floor leaders and a farmer. Besides the announcement of these committees, the only other important action taken by the house was passage of the resolution in memory of Judge Engerud of Fargo, who recently died, and calling for a recess this afternoon at the time of the funeral and also the flying of the flag at the capitol at half-mast.

The personnel of house committees announced yesterday afternoon follows:

CHICAGO "CAVEMAN" HELD AS WIFE THIEF

Pierre Paul Auther, hidalgo "caveman" of Chicago, is shown here with the wife and daughter he is charged with abandoning. Auther was arrested in St. Louis, in company with Mrs. Philip Franzen, on charges made by his wife and Franzen. Mrs. Auther charged abandonment. Franzen, who lives in Madison, Wis., swore to a warrant charging Auther with stealing his wife and $100 "honeymoon expenses." Mrs. Auther says her husband's love cooled after her beauty had been marred by an explosion of acid in a war hospital in France, where she served as a nurse. After Auther vanished New Year day, leaving a will, Franzen came forward and told his story. He said Auther, posing as an Enoch Arden, claimed to be Mrs. Franzen's real husband, by a marriage in Australia 14 years ago; and that Auther put a pistol to his head and made him sign a "waiver" to Mrs. Franzen and fork over $100. Police say Auther denies the Enoch Arden story, but admits taking money for the "honeymoon."

U. S. NAVY
TO SURPASS
THE BRITISHDaniels Lays Data of Building
Program Before Committee

Washington, Jan. 12.—Secretary Daniels today laid before the house naval affairs committee what he described as approximately complete data on the relative sea power of the three principal naval powers requested by the committee in connection with the consideration on disarmament.

Should the United States call upon the nations of the world for a "full, free and fair discussion of disarmament, the favorable response would be prompt and inevitable," the house naval committee was told today by General Tasker H. Bliss, former American representative on the supreme war council at Paris.

"Threatening that would come to such a conference and refuse to agree to any proposition looking to disarmament, or at least a reduction of its military establishment," said General Bliss, "could be written down as the next Germany and the United States could make its plans accordingly."

Tables submitted by the secretary show that while the present effective fighting strength of the British navy includes 528 ships of 1,638,442 tons as compared to 330 ships of 779,133-000 for the American navy completion of the authorized building program of this country in 1925 will give it a tonnage superior in the ratio of 1.35 to 1, with approximately an equal number of ships.

In major ships and gun power the American navy at the completion of its present program will have an actual superiority over the British fleet. Secretary Daniels said—but that it would be considerably weaker in point of light cruisers and other auxiliary craft.

General Bliss preceded before the committee Secretary Daniels—who appeared again to give the committee detailed information regarding the relative naval strength of the great powers. The former chief of staff of the army said his association of the high officials of the great powers had confirmed his belief that all the great nations of the world were ready to talk disarmament seriously.

Air Mail Service
Not Slower Than Rail

Cleveland, O., Jan. 12.—A recent statement by Congressman Madden in the house of representatives that railway mail service between Chicago and New York was faster than air service was denied by John Whitbeck, of the Cleveland-Chicago division of the air mail service today. The best possible time between Chicago and New York is 24 hours. Our pilots make the trip from Chicago to Cleveland in 3 hours and 10 minutes and from Cleveland to New York in three hours and 51 minutes. Mail which leaves Chicago at 6:30 a. m. is delivered in both Cleveland and New York the same afternoon.

TO MOVE UP A GRADE

Bismarck postoffice did a greater business in 1920 than in any previous year.

As a result of the new record the postoffice will advance one grade next July and some of the officials will benefit in increased salaries.

Total business in 1920 amounted to $137,165.17 as compared to $130,463.78 in 1919 and about $106,000.00 in 1918. The increase in 1920 really is greater than is shown by the comparison of receipts because during the first two quarters of 1919 there was three-cent postage follows:

Comparison by quarters follows: 1919, first quarter, $35,549.80; second quarter, $34,544.17; third quarter, $28,765.58; fourth quarter, $33,564.21; total, $130,463.78. 1920, first quarter, $39,499.50; second quarter, $32,518.28; third quarter, $32,242.20; fourth quarter, $32,928.18; total, $137,165.17.

There was a decrease in the December business of 1920 over 1919 from $35,549.80 to $10,449.95.

DIPHTHERIA IN SLOPE COUNTRY,
REPORTS SHOW

There is considerable diphtheria in the Slope country, according to reports to E. M. Stanton, of the public health laboratory.

Several cases are reported from the vicinity of Dickinson, Fayette, Richardson and Taylor, the laboratory having been asked to make an examination of cultures. The exact origin of the small epidemic of the disease has not been traced, but it is believed that one boy contracted it and that another boy caught it from him before he was placed under a physician's care.

There is little typhoid fever, according to Mr. Stanton. There are a few cases in local hospitals, but they are from scattered communities out side the city.

Health conditions generally are fairly good, not a great number of serious diseases being reported. There is considerable sickness of not a serious nature, it is said.

Washington, Jan. 12.—Changes in the plans for the inauguration of President-elect Harding will not interfere with the intention of President Wilson to accompany Mr. Harding to the capitol where the latter will take the oath of office, it was learned today.

Plans for the inauguration of Mr. Harding as they stood today provided for a ceremony almost as simple as those of Thomas Jefferson's induction.

The administration of the oath of office, the joint congressional inauguration committee has decided, will take place in the senate chamber in the presence of members of the senate, house and supreme court and a gallery of not more than 1,000 persons.

ENGINEERS TO

IN FEBRUARYState Meeting Set for Feb. 10-11
—Interest in Engineers' Bill

Prof. E. F. Chandler, secretary of the North Dakota Society of Engineers, announced that this society holds its annual meeting in joint session with the state chapter of the American Association of Engineers in Bismarck on February 10 and 11. The North Dakota society had planned to hold its meeting in Jamestown but upon invitation of the A. A. E. and because the legislature is in session, the matter of changing to Bismarck was voted on by letter ballot favorably.

Arrangements are being made and program and entertainment prepared by the resident directors and the Bismarck A. A. E. club.

The North Dakota Society of Engineers in existence since 1911 is a technical society and numbers 79 members. The A. A. E. state chapter is a non-technical society for "technical men" and though organized but 10 months ago has at this time a membership of 100. The two societies comprise practically all of the professional engineers in North Dakota.

Judging from the interest shown by the state's engineers and because of the engineers' license bill to be introduced in the legislature and due to other legislative activities of both these societies, it is expected that the February joint meeting will result in the biggest gathering of engineers ever held in North Dakota.

The State Association of Architects will also have been invited to be present and participate in the proceedings.

Greatest Need Declares
Speaker

El Paso, Tex., Jan. 12.—A tariff duty on farm products at the earliest possible date, increased credits and early adoption of legislation now pending in congress and providing for the appointment of a committee to serve the livestock industry were urged as a necessary step for the rehabilitation of the growing industry by J. B. Kendrick, of Sheridan, Wyo. In an address before the annual convention of the American National Livestock association here today.

Kendrick is president of the association. Kendrick sketched the trouble of the industry beginning with the tough conditions in the southwest for two or three years, an increase in meat imports in 1920, a decrease in meat exports in the same period and the "absence of market for wool at any price."

Increased Costs.
He estimated that increased freight yardage and commission charges amounted to from 50 to 100 percent during the last year.

"An extreme case in connection with this situation," he said, "was shown in a shipment of sheep from Wyoming in December 1920, in which the cost of movement was so great that the net amount received was slightly over 25 cents a head."

Kendrick declared nothing would give greater impetus to the production of livestock at this time than a change in our laws which would provide a sound rational system of financing that would extend to small producers loans in limited amounts.

SCHOOL LAWS DISCUSSED IN JOINT MEETING

State Teachers Committee Meets
Members of Legislative Committees

APPOINT COUNTY SUPT.

A joint meeting was to be held this afternoon by the senate and house education committees and the legislative committee of the state teachers' association, to discuss legislation proposed in the interest of the schools.

A constitutional amendment making the office of county superintendent appointive instead of elective and providing tuition for school districts which have pupils from another district are two of the more important proposals discussed. Bills may be introduced covering the following proposals of educators:

1. Permitting high schools to charge tuition to an outside district which sends a pupil to the high school.
2. Reclassification of schools to reduce the number of classes, and simplify the distribution of state aid.
3. Providing for state trustee officer, with power to make arrests in any part of the state.
4. Make a separate section of the law regarding transportation of pupils.
5. Give relief to low-salaried county superintendents by increasing mileage allowance, and give them back field deputies taken away at the last special session.
6. Constitutional amendment creating an elective county board of education of five members, with power to hire the county superintendent without residence qualifications, and to have administrative powers.

Other propositions have been discussed by the educators, but it was explained by the legislative committee of the teachers' association. Many high schools, it is said, have half their pupils from school districts which do not support the high school. It is proposed to require these outside districts to pay tuition, estimated at about $100 a year. The educators believe a trustee office is very necessary, saying that the law of compulsory attendance is not strictly enforced throughout the state, and that there are many persons, born and reared in North Dakota, who cannot read or write.

NEW THOUGHT LAWYER LATEST OF THE SPECIES

Yakima, Wash., Jan. 11.—Harcourt M. Taylor, retiring judge of the Yakima superior court, announced yesterday that he would resume practice of law in accordance with the principles of new thought.

"As I shall apply the teachings of Jesus, the Christ, to legal service," he stated, "I shall accept no employment to fight lawsuits as counsel or assist others to do so nor attempt to collect debts though I can assist people in keeping out of lawsuits or settling litigation in which they are already involved. I shall consider I shall have rendered the highest legal service. I shall trust in God not in the courts, and I shall not compensation making no fixed charge. My clients will pay me what they think is right and their means justify."

SISTER STATE WOULD REVISE 1919 CODES

Pierre, S. D., Jan. 11.—Two bills, brought at the request of the Lawrence County Bar association have been introduced by Senator T. R. Stoner of Lead, before the senate of the South Dakota legislature. They are Senate bill No. 12, proposing a revision of the revised code of 1913 relating to places of trial and Senate bill No. 13, relating to certificates of acknowledgment of an instrument.

Under the present law a plaintiff in Harding county, in the extreme northwestern corner of the state, may bring suit in his county, against a defendant residing in Union county, the southeastern extremity of South Dakota. The proposed revision would require the action to be brought in the county in which the defendant resides at the commencement of the action, or in the case of corporations, other than a railroad corporation, in the county in which the principal place of business is situated.

Senator Stoner's other bill would require certificates of acknowledgment of instruments, executed by corporations, to be signed only by the secretary or president of the corporation. The existing law allows the signature to be made by any officer and according to Senator Stoner has led to persons impersonating an officer of a corporation.

With but two officials allowed to sign there will be less difficulty on the part of a notary to establish their identity.

What is MOTHER'S FRIEND

Simply and tersely stated, MOTHER'S FRIEND is just exactly what the name implies—a friend and help to mothers.

It has been made and sold for more than half a century. If it did not possess the value claimed for it, MOTHER'S FRIEND could not possibly have remained on the market. For only that which is really worth while and beneficial can survive.

The mothers who appreciate MOTHER'S FRIEND the most, and who are loudest in their praise of it, are those who unfortunately did not use it with their first baby, and who, through its use with the second one, were able to fully realize the relief it gave them.

DIDN'T EVEN NEED THE DOCTOR

"Dear Sirs: I am willing and anxious to tell any mother about MOTHER'S FRIEND. It did me so much good that I wouldn't be without it. It cost $3.00 a bottle. With my first two children, and a doctor and a nurse and all the things they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I only had a nurse. We had no time to get a doctor because I wasn't very sick and only sick about ten or fifteen minutes.

"Any mother can write me and I will only be too glad to give her advice. Yours truly,"

Health and Happiness for Women

Every woman seeks happiness as the thing to be most desired. Fortunately, the right to happiness is denied to no woman, regardless of her sphere in life. The first and foremost essential is good health. For, without good health, strive after happiness as she may, it is beyond her reach. If she will accept the advice of thousands of women, who have been benefited, she will take Dr. J. Bradford's Female Regulator—a tonic for women—and-for-troubles-peculiar to their sex, which has been sold by drug stores for more than 50 years. Dr. J. Bradford's Female Regulator is put up in $1.00 bottles.

DEBATE WAXES WARM ON AUDIT FIRM'S REPORT

whom such audit is to be reported.

Therefore, I move that the president of the senate appoint a committee of three to confer with the auditing board and make arrangements for receiving the report and for the examination of the members of the Bishop, Brissman & Company who made the audit, so that the truthfulness and correctness of said audit may be confirmed, and so that the body and the people of the state may know whether this was an honest attempt to make an audit or a political audit for the benefit of a political faction. Nothing in this resolution shall change or affect the resolution heretofore adopted on this subject.

The senator declared: "I believe that the senate and the house and the people of the state are entitled to an honest audit of the North Dakota industries. I have no ulterior motive."

In introducing this resolution but we want the audit to be of the fiscal and not political significance. We have heard many stories concerning this audit of the industries, including one that an auditor working at the state mill at Drake met with an accident when a sack of bran rolled down, that he became discouraged, and grieved at the rest. We want him to come here for examination.

"On the question of expenditure," he continued, "this legislative assembly is costing the state approximately $1,600 a day and if my understanding is correct the house has expressed itself as not being able to process unless it first has this audit report as to what is needed. It makes no material difference, but it would be better if these accountants were brought here at a cost of $1,000 a day than hold a body at $1,600 a day doing nothing."

New Board to Act.
The league floor leader of the senate indicated that still a further audit would be made at the direction of the board, when he said:

"We want the assurance of having an honest audit by both companies that have audited the industries and whatever new company does. We have heard a great deal, but we cannot get at the facts unless the auditors are here to ask them questions. I have some to ask myself."

Senator Ployhar, Independent, moved that the resolution be referred to the state affairs committee.

Liederbach: "I want to know why this should go to the state affairs committee and delay matters two or three more days."

Ployhar: "I want to say to the senate that I do not like the phraseology of this resolution any more than the one the other day (introduced by Liederbach from which an alleged political paragraph was stricken). I am going to watch the phraseology of every resolution introduced by the senator from Dunn from now on. I don't see any reason why the state affairs committee should not take up the resolution this afternoon and report back to this body tomorrow."

All Are Waiting.
Senator Church entered the debate. "The resolution only calls for a committee of three to confer with the board of auditors. We're marking time and the people of the state are making time waiting for the report. Everyone, be he Nonpartisan leaguer or Independent, is waiting for the report."

Senator Stevens, Independent, replied: "We want to know what we are voting on and we cannot know by a hasty reading of the resolution." Senator Fraser, Nonpartisan: "We want to know whether we are getting an investigation report or an audit report."

The telegram gave no indication of when the report would be made.

Senator Mees objected to further argument, citing rule eighteen.

Vote Is Even.

The question was put on Ployhar's motion to refer to the state affairs committee. The chair rules the yeas to prevail and division was asked. On standing the senators voted 23 and 23, and the chair voted to kill the motion.

Senator Steel then moved that the vote on the resolution be deferred until today. "Regardless of what it is, we ask a reasonable time to digest it," he said.

Senator Church, Nonpartisan: "We did that a few days ago on another resolution and the committee has not yet reported."

Senator Ployhar, Independent: "The chairman of that committee is a member of the majority in this body, and the 'majority' also has a majority of the committee. Why haven't they reported?"

Sensors Baker, Ward, Ettestad and Levang expressed themselves. The question was put on deferring until today. The chair again ruled on the yeas and nay vote. On standing vote, it was again a 23 to 23 tie, and the chair voted against the motion for deferring.

SUB EVID.

On the question of the adoption of the resolution a division of the senate announced by the chair, was 25 to 23 for adoption. Whitman absent.

President Wood then named Senators Liederbach, Ployhar and Church as the committee to confer with the state board of auditors.

The senate judiciary committee reported out for measure Senate Bill No. 1 by McNair as amended in committee to include features in Senate Bill No. 3 by Baird. The bills in the first instance provided means for allowing attorney generals elect to conclude private business after taking office, the other giving states attorneys the right to participate in the defense of criminal cases outside of their own counties. The adoption carried.

WHOM AFRAID? — Snakes?
Why, little Sister Hart plays with 'em! Her dad is Cecil Hart, a naturalist at Montebello, Cal. He thinks all children should know that many snakes, held in deadly fear, are harmless, and a help to the farmer, in that they destroy gophers, mice and ground hogs.

"French Leave."

The familiar expression "to take French leave" arose in the early part of the eighteenth century, through certain guests in the saloons of France, not aware of the higher acts of courtesy, leaving without saying good-bye to the host or hostess. The practice spread to society in other countries. Therefore, if a man left without saying good-bye to his host it was "to take French leave."

To Make a Hole in Glass.
To make a hole in glass make a circle of clay or cement rather larger than the intended hole; pour some kerosene into the cup thus formed, ignite it, place the plate upon a moderately hard support, and with a stick rather smaller than the hole required and a hammer strike a rather sharp blow. This will leave a rough-edged hole, which may be smoothed with a file. Cold water is said to answer even better than a blow.

CHICAGO YEARNS FOR A GREENWICH VILLAGE

(N. E. A. Staff Special.)

Chicago, Jan. 12.—Chicago has its stockyards, but it wants a Greenwich Village.

Chicago claims it educates more artists than any other American city. But it has never had an art colony like New York's Greenwich Village or Paris' Latin Quarter.

So Chicago can't keep its artists after it has produced them.

For an artist without an art community is like a fish without water. "An artist paints best the things he knows best," says Earl H. Reed, Jr., architect and instructor at the Chicago Art Institute.

"That's why we should keep with us the artists from the west and middle west. We need them to show Americans the real beauties of America."

To interest Chicagoans in financing an art community the artists recently gave a great Artists' Frolic. The hit of the frolic was the "Lose-a-Leaf" girl. Garbed in leaves and bearing silver shears, she danced among the guests permitting each to snip a leaf from her costume.

But she took her leave while many leaves were left.

Legislative Notes

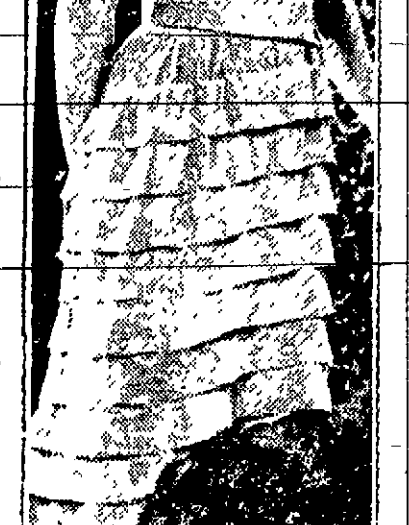

Among the visitors in the city today, who mingled with legislators in hotel lobbies, were Judge Nichols.

ODD FELLOWS IN CITY PLAN FOR STATE MEETING

New Officers Are Installed by Capital City Lodge—Ask New Home

Capital City Lodge No. 2, I. O. O. F., held an enthusiastic meeting Tuesday evening and plans were made for the work to be done in 1921. The Grand Lodge meets in Bismarck next June and the local lodge and Rebekahs are planning an elaborate program and reception for them. It is hoped that the Grand Lodge this year will decide in favor of building an Odd Fellows home in Bismarck. They now have sufficient funds and the home for Odd Fellows and Rebekahs is now simply a question of location. Acting District Grand Master, Theodore Kotter, acted as installing officer and the following officers were installed:

Noble Grand, L. H. Langley.
Vice Grand, Robert Roberts.
Past Grand, H. J. Strunk.
Treasurer, August Watz.
Secretary, Hiram Landers.

BISMARCK IS GIVEN PRAISE BY EVANGELIST

Rev. Copeland Finds City Hospitable and Responsive to Spiritual Campaign

(Contributed)
A large delegation from the Bismarck Hospital, headed by Evangelist Copeland, at the Evangelical church last night. Before beginning to preach the evangelist paid a high tribute to the quality of the young women in the hospital here. He also registered his high appreciation of the kindness of the people of Bismarck, whom he has had the pleasure to meet; the pastor's wife came in for a share in the tribute, the evangelist saying, "Mrs. Strutz is a jewel in caring for evangelists."

The Evangelist took his text from Romans 3:22-24 "For there is no difference for all have sinned and come short of the glory of God; being justified freely by His grace through the redemption that is in Christ Jesus. The evangelist said: "All have been born with a bad heart. Did you ever pray for power to do wrong? You appeal to a higher Power for help to do right. Follow the leading of your own heart, and you will fall into sin. Some protest here. But where does the sin of the world come from? Not from the atmosphere we breathe, not from the food we eat, not from the water we drink. Jesus said, 'For from within, out of the heart of man, proceed evil thoughts, adulteries, murders, thefts, wickedness, deceit, etc.' Some are good because they fear punishment, some because they are afraid of con-

AT THE MOVIES

ELTINGE
Cameron West was very fond of Marion Rogers, and engaged to be married to her, but his love did not amount to a grand passion. It had grown too slowly, perhaps, without exciting moments of delicious discovery, for through their later childhood and youth they had known each other as brother and sister. Their parents, widow and widower, had married while they were young.

It was not altogether surprising, therefore, in view of Cameron's impressionable nature, that he became infatuated with Diana Spaulding, a frivolous though very charming little person, almost at the moment of their meeting. Diana was fond of having men in love with her, and encouraged Cameron, though she really cared much more for Granville Wingate, a man with a great fondness for all attractive women but a strong preference for Marion Rogers. Marion cared for him not at all.

The strange circumstances attending the complicated four-cornered love affair are unfolded in "The Vice of Fools" by Francis James, visualized by Vitagraph, with Alice Joyce in the stellar role. It will be shown at the Eltinge theater tonight.

WHAT THE PRESS HAS TO SAY

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER

(Established 1875)

THEY NEED MOTHER CARE

Forty out of the 48 states have now adopted some form of Mother's Pensions.

They have recognized the principle that children should not be taken from their mothers because of poverty alone.

The rapid extension of the Mothers' Pension movement indicates the general belief of the country in the paramount value of home life and a mother's care.

However, although large grants have been made in many of our states, the amounts in general are far too small. The increased cost of living has not been met and the full purpose of the laws is not attained. Some of the states are now making careful studies of increased costs so that allowances may respond to the prices.

WORLD EXPLORATION IN 1921

Man is a curious animal. He wants to know. Patriotism, money or fame may be reasons back of most of the exploring expeditions in the world, but the curiosity of the human race is a compelling feature. For almost five years, due to the great war, there has been little done in the way of exploring and scientific research. The brave, hardy men were engaged in even a more important task. But now there has been a re-awakening.

As a result no less than 16 different expeditions have been organized for work in 1921 and longer in the meteorological, zoological, ethnological, geological, and biological fields. Six groups will penetrate the polar regions, four will find their way into African wildernesses, and others will plod painstakingly to shrines far hidden and long hidden away.

A British Antarctic expedition hopes to circumnavigate the Antarctic sea, dash to the South Pole, locate new whaling grounds, and discover gold, silver, coal and ruby fields. Captain Raold Amundsen is already away up north of Asia, waiting for his ship to be carried through to the pole by the ice pack in the spring. Two men are now on a 4,000 mile journey in a 50-foot boat on the Kolyma river, in Siberia. Knud Rasmussen is preparing for a five year trip to study Eskimo tribes. Donald MacMillan, one of the men with Perry when he discovered the North Pole, plans to try to circumnavigate Baffinland in 1921.

Besides, there are explorers getting ready to do scientific work in China and Tibet in the Pacific Islands, in Ecuador and Peru, in Mexico, in Nova Zembla, and last but not least, a group of American scientists, commanded by Henry Russell, of Columbia University and Dr. David Starr Jordan, of Leland Stanford University proposes to explore the Amazon.

There may be some who will say, "Why be so curious?" Well, it was just that curiosity that led Christopher Columbus onward, and, lacking that bump, the American people might have been a great deal longer getting here.

AS TEXT AND INSPIRATION

The national circumstances under which Warren G. Harding shortly will assume the presidency are not unlike those in which Washington delivered his first inaugural address and Abraham Lincoln his second.

Washington's task was the construction of a government for which the foundation had been laid. He was without the counsel of experience and the young genius of democracy was his only guide. His brief inaugural address was a prayer "to the benign Parent of the human race."

The Civil War was coming to a conclusion in the hour of Lincoln's second inauguration, and the Union victory was but a few days off. Before him was the task of rebuilding a nation dent in twain. He was not permitted to live for this work.

Harding's job combines elements of the great tasks of Washington and Lincoln. There is new construction as well as reconstruction to be done. The nation is on the threshold of a fresh start. The problems of Washington and Lincoln were political and domestic; Harding's are economic and international.

The first concern of the new administration is domestic tranquility and prosperity. But, in view of our new relations, neither is permanently certain unless the new administration discovers a basis for world peace that shall serve as a foundation comprehensive enough and strong enough for the whole new economic structure that must be erected.

As the text for his inaugural address and as inspiration for the work of his administration,

Harding, confronted by discouraging difficulties, might well take the peroration of Lincoln's second inaugural:

"With malice toward none; with charity for all; with firmness in the right, as God gives us to see the right, let us strive on to finish the work we are in, to bind the nation's wounds; to care for him who shall have borne the battle; and for his widow, and his orphan—to do all which may achieve and cherish a just and lasting peace among ourselves, and with all nations."

LITERARY BURGLARS

The very man who said there was nothing new under the sun, is said by some scholars to have pilfered the adage from a writer dead before Solomon lived.

It is quite the thing for critics to wrinkle their brows to frown on a modern philosopher for alleged thefts from the songs of Omar Khayyam. Persian, who lived in the eleventh and twelfth centuries of the Christian era.

But old Omar, known to every land about the time he first dons long trousers, didn't have hands clean of literary burglary himself. He cribbed as clumsily and inexpertly as the veriest schoolboy.

About half of his eat, drink and be merry epigrams he stole from one Abu'l-Ala, Arab, who wrote songs he called the "Luzumiyat," 100 years before the Tenthmuker lay on his back in a rose garden and poked fun at the Gods.

"I give and go, Grim Destiny—I play

"Upon this checker-board of Night and Day—

Thus sings Abu'l and back comes Omar with—

"But helpless pieces of the game He plays

"Upon this checkerboard of nights and days—"

They finish the thought together with something to the effect that when the game's done the player's done, too.

About the only difference between Omar and the Arab was that Abu'l was a woman-hater and—well, Omar wasn't.

THE NAMELESS BABIES

"The problem of illegitimacy is a much larger one than most people think," says Dr. F. S. Kellogg, of the American Hygiene Association. "Its ramifications extend far more widely into our social fabric, both in rural and city communities, than the uninitiated imagine. It demands state support for its proper settlement, as well as state legislation and public benevolence."

Each state is confronted with the necessity of seeing that both the charitable and economic sides of the problem are handled with as little individual suffering as possible.

There is a need for improved organization, not only among social workers and philanthropists, but among institutions. The proper solution demands a high degree of medical and sociological skill, as well as the necessary financial support, but it is only by this means that the state and public can fulfill its duty to the unmarried mother and child.

A quarrel is vulgar no matter how high-toned it is pitched.

Much is said about "common honesty." How common is honesty?

"You can't have everything," said California to Ohio on the gridiron.

Anyway, it's fairly certain that De Valera didn't swim to Ireland.

Eggs are becoming cheaper. Perhaps the angel-food cake era is returning.

EDITORIAL REVIEW

Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of The Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of important issues which are being discussed in the press of the day.

SOMETHING TO BLUSH FOR

The American people who are anything but cheap, must grow red in the face when they read certain tales of the business of bringing back the three naval lieutenants whose balloon carried them to Canada.

When the head of the adventuring party, Lieutenant Kloor, telegraphed to the Rockaway naval air station for $400 to pay the expenses of the return by rail, the men of the station were compelled to pass the hat among themselves to get the money.

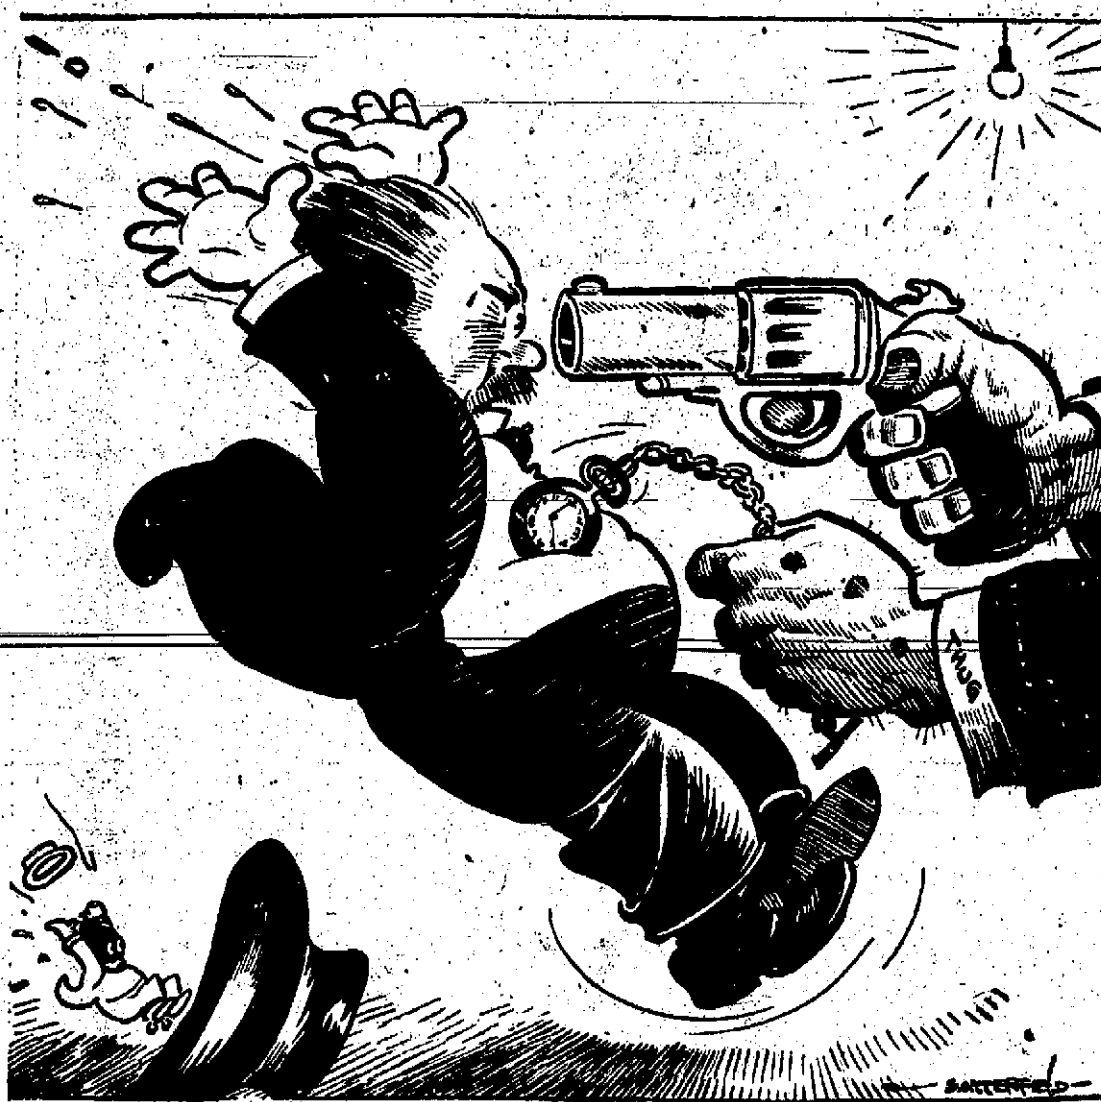

The Navy Department, it was explained, can reimburse the balloonists only to the extent of eight cents a mile from the railroad point nearest which they land to their home station. The Secretary of the Navy has a contingent fund, but the men of the air station evidently did not believe that this could be depended upon for quick, if any, action.

The Navy had appropriations of nearly half a billion in the present fiscal year, and yet its employees, on official business, must borrow from their friends or take a chance of staying in the snows of a foreign country.

It was easy for the Government to get and pay out money in the recent jamboree of extravagance and graft. It made its financial methods flexible enough then. But they stiffen up when merely the pride and safety of loyal service men are at hazard.

How the Canadians must laugh at an Administration which can squander billions but cannot find $400 in its pocket to bring its aeronauts home from the wilderness.—New York Herald.

ONE BUSINESS THAT IS "HOLDING UP"

HOW UNCLE SAM SPENDS MONEY

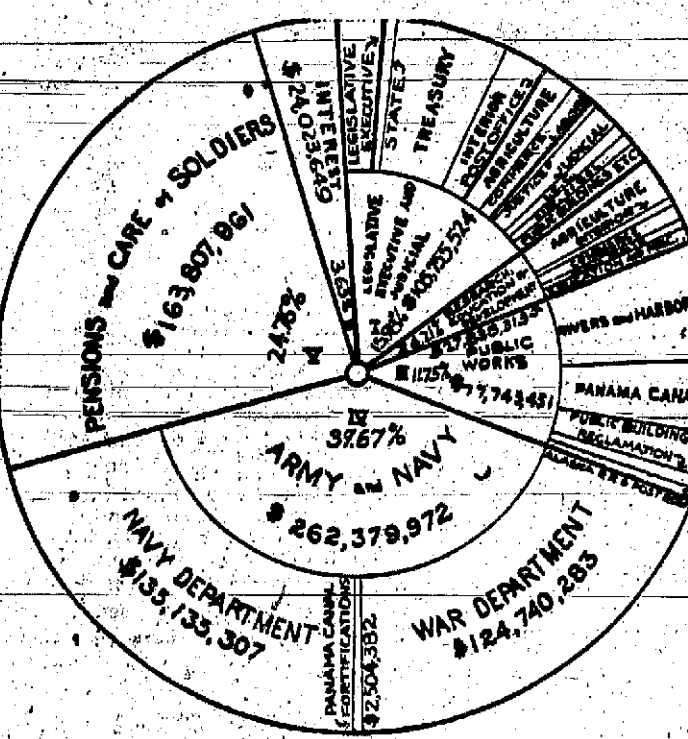

Chart shows net expenditure of federal government; average yearly total—$661,548,870; average yearly civil—$211,337,288; not including war cost.

The comparative expenditures of the federal government for civil and military purposes, for the 10 years from 1910 to 1919, inclusive, excluding extraordinary expenses due to the war, are graphically shown in the accompanying chart prepared by Dr. E. B. Ross of the United States Bureau of Standards.

This chart shows that an average of less than one-third the net cost of government was for civil purposes; the remaining two-thirds being required to meet the expense of our army and navy and the pension roll and other obligations incurred by previous wars.

The average yearly net expenses of the government for this period was $661,548,870, of which only $211,337,288 was for civil administration and public works. The remainder, $450,211,532, was a military expense.

The phrase "A Billion Dollar Congress," current during the pre-war points out, inasmuch as the largest net expenditure ever incurred by the United States government before 1917 was $679,712,000 in 1915.

The billion dollar appropriations including the total expenses of the postoffice and other self-supporting branches of the government, which covered into the treasury sums approximately equalling and often exceeding the amounts appropriated for their uses.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No gripping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

"If you have a 'dark brown mouth'—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them. 15c and 50c.

Legislative Notes

The Blue Sky Commission urges all investors in the Collins Safety Razor company to communicate with the North Dakota Protective association organized in Grand Forks, which is looking into the interests of stockholders in the company.

George N. Varnum of Menoken, one of the three first leaguers elected from Burleigh county to the house, was up yesterday, checking up on the legislators.

Frank J. Prater of Arena, who served two terms in the house as a representative from Burleigh and is a brother of William J. Prater, former league county manager and secretary of the senate, was in from his farm in the northeastern part of the county, meeting the old and the new members of the legislature and discussing proposed bills.

The state bank guaranty fund commission, with two new members, met in the office of the state examiner late yesterday.

The efforts of the North Dakota Chapter of the American Association of Engineers in behalf of further federal appropriations to aid the states in the improvement of highways have been met with favorable assurances by U. S. Senator-elect E. F. Ladd and Representative-elect O. B. Buttress, both of whom have promised their support to such legislation. The concurrent resolution introduced in the House Saturday by State Representative J. A. Jardine of Fargo memorializing Congress to make further federal appropriations was also introduced by the state chapter of engineers. The first federal aid road act signed by Pres. Wilson on July 11, 1916, with amendments in 1919 provided $275,000,000 aid for states. North Dakota's share for the 5-year period ending next June 30, was approximately $4,225,000. The counties of the state have made requests for federal aid in excess of this amount.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Oliver Roberts Barton.

"The Carved Box"
When Nancy and Nick crawled into the "igloo" or hut of Ishu the Eskimo, they could scarcely see at first until their eyes became accustomed to the darkness. Eskimos have no windows in their low ice houses and very low doors and the only light they get is by burning whale-oil or seal-oil in flat dishes.

But they soon made out the figure of a man bending over a little moss fire and stirring a broth that smelled awfully good to their little noses. The good Ishu himself, the one who had called so cheerily to them to come in.

"How do you do?" he said, stopping his stirring and turning to welcome his visitors. "What may your errand be and what do you call yourselves?"

"We're Nancy and Nick," answered the little boy. "We've just come from Santa Claus' house in the North Pole and we are on our way to the South Pole to find the bad fairy, Snatcher, who stole all his toys."

"You don't say so!" exclaimed their host. "Well, that is a big errand."

"Yes, it is," answered Nick. "But we've got the magic," answered Nick proudly, and he explained all about their Green Shoes, the charm that the Fairy Queen had given them and the golden key and the map.

"Oh, I see," smiled Ishu. "Those are very valuable things, children, but you may lose them. I have a carved box here that you may drop them into. If you wish for safe keeping, I'll get it at once. And after that I'll give you each a bowl of this hot broth and you may take a nap in my warm bed."

"You're very kind," said Nancy, slipping off one shoe.

Little did she guess who Ishu was.

Last Night's Dreams

—What They Mean

DID YOU DREAM ABOUT DRINKING?

NOW that booze has "gone glimmering through the dream of things that were" it is interesting to investigate the alcoholic conditions in Dreamland. "Where there ain't no Ten Commandments and a man can raise a thirst."

It is not too much to say that the situation there is positively shocking, and the drowsy ought to get busy at once in the realm of shadows. Old booze-fighters, now reduced to taking their drowsy and consoling with their inebriated associates in Dreamland only, may gather what solace they can from the fact that oracles and soothsayers regard as of generally favorable omen dreams in which the late John Burien corn conspicuously figures. And it may be laid down as a rule that if you take your "licker" in dreams alone it won't hurt you. In fact, it will have just the contrary effect to taking it over a real bar. To go into a Dreamland barroom—the only one now open—and there, seeing old acquaintances, say "What's your's, boys?" indicates, if everything is pleasant and convivial, that you will soon embark in some new speculation or business which will be highly profitable. Should one of these dream-friends refuse to join you, declaring that he is on "the water-wagon" you will soon meet an old friend and have a long and pleasant chat with him.

To dream that you are drunk and have accumulated your jag from Dreamland booze indicates that riches and honors, now wholly unforeseen, are to come to you; probably through making the acquaintance of a man now unknown to you who will put you in the way of making your fortune. To the unmarried man it signifies that he is beloved by a woman of whom he has, as yet, scarcely thought, and that she will make an excellent wife. But to dream that you have tasted no liquor and yet are drunk is accounted a bad sign. You will soon commit some foolish action.

If you dream that you got drunk on water you are going to boast of your rich relations, and of wealth which you do not possess. Also, to see another man drunk means that you will do something foolish.

It is but fair to the oracle and soothsayers to state that these dream interpretations were expounded years and years before the dry amendment to the Constitution was thought of. (Copyright.)

THE JOB ABOVE YOU

IT IS perfectly legitimate for you to be keeping an eye with a view to future possession on the job above you. Some of you have perhaps reached the pinnacle of your ambition, but that number is small. There is something ahead that is better and it is right to try for it, to plan for it, to get it. But don't make the mistake of slaying your present job because you think you are fit for a better one. The best way in the world to get that rise is to fill your present position as well as it can be filled. There is very little really thorough work being done. The girl who is thorough in what she does, who can be definitely depended upon, will attract notice. Doing your work well is more important than many women think.

One woman whom I know was supposed to make clippings for her employer in regard to the business of the firm, clippings from a large number of papers, and to leave these on his desk. It occurred to her that he lost a good deal of time in running over these slips. She began arranging them according to topics, and she fastened to each bunch of clippings a resume of their contents carefully made. It wasn't much, perhaps, but it looked good to that employer. He kept his eye on that young woman. She had aroused his interest.

Presently she suggested the feasibility of issuing a small pamphlet made up of items from these clippings, a monthly record of what appeared in the public prints that was most to the point. The idea was adopted and worked well.

A girl like that does not stay down. She is now private secretary and advertising manager to that employer, at an excellent salary. And she will go farther.

You don't need to be a grind and a ludge to do your work so well that you will be taking the job above you as soon as it is vacant—or can be created. You do need to be interested in what you are doing now, to be ready to develop its possibilities, to see the relationship between what you are doing and the work of the organization as a whole. It is work done without interest and hope that is hard. It leads nowhere, and it is boring. Keep alive in the job you are in.

MADE WAY INTO SACRED CITY

Englishman Claims to Be the Only Living European Who Has Set Foot in Holy Sheshawon.

The Morocco correspondent of the London Times claims to be "almost with certainty" the only living European, who has hitherto visited Sheshawon, the mysterious "secret" Moroccan inland city which is officially stated to be occupied by a Jewish expeditionary force.

Sheshawon, or more correctly Sheshawon, he writes is a small town of a few thousand inhabitants situated in the highland of the Beni Zelal about 40 miles to the south of Tetuan. The Times man says he visited it in Moorish disguise in 1888 and only escaped with difficulty.

He adds that the town is small, built along a sort of terrace on the high mountain side, and is renowned for its springs and streams. With the exception of its picturesque situation among mountains, its aloofness and its surrounding legends, the shawon presents no very particular features.

Its inhabitants are poor. Their industries are the making of furniture in polished wood—brackets and tables—and the weaving of woolen stuffs. They are renowned for their mean ness, and a native proverb states: "If you see a Moslem merchant from Fez weeping, it is only a Moor of Sheshawon who could have got the better of him."

With the sailing away of the steamship Victoria, bearing 350 Norse residents, most of whom announced their purpose never to return, the brooding spirit of melancholy came in with the long, long winter. Again the "wolf's long howl" is heard on Ounaslaska's lonely shore, and the little remnant of population is left with memories and disappointed hopes. Yet a few will cling to the deserted beach to the last breath of life, for such is the unfulfilling record of every famous camp, to live over again in memory, through the long arctic nights, the stirring scenes of 20 years ago.—Spokane Spokesman-Review.

PARODIES ALWAYS IN ORDER

Omar Khayyam and the Ever-Delightful Pepsys Have by No Means Exhausted the List.

Does your memory go back to the time when everyone was writing parodies of the Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam? When it was considered very literary to know all about Omar, and when all the writers, both would-be and professional, were reducing the lyrical quatrains to modern terms? The newspapers were full of "Omar's Up-to-date," and quite a lot of them carried the magazines before the craze died down.

After that parodists sought other inspiration, but found no material that suited them quite so well, until a few years ago, one of them chanced on the Ditty of Samuel Pepys. What a rich vein. The parodists went mad over it, and have been digging there ever since. Almost anybody can fill up a column with epigrams in the Pepys style, while the clever writer, by this means, can make himself entertaining. Some other original genius will soon make the place of Mr. Pepys in the record of the copyists, for the popularity of the creative masters of literature is more or less changed, dependent upon time or circumstances, while the work of the parodist goes on forever.—Ohio State Journal.

MULE BALKED AT EXECUTION

Obstinate to the 'Last Animal' Compelled Buffalo Bill to Completely Empty His Revolver.

It was while serving as a scout under General Sheridan in his campaign against the Indians in western Kansas that Buffalo Bill, carrying dispatches, had to ride a government mule owing to the scarcity of horses. The mule broke away, and Cody had to walk 35 miles during the night with the animal just in front of him, but always out of reach.

"Well, when he got really and truly angry," says his widow, "didn't have the sweetest temper in the world. And by the time the sun rose he was just about ten degrees higher than fever-heat in his attitude toward the mule. Suddenly, the soldiers in Fort Larned heard the sound of a shot about half a mile away. Then another and another and another. When they reached the place where the shooting had occurred they found Will standing over a dead mule, cursing energetically.

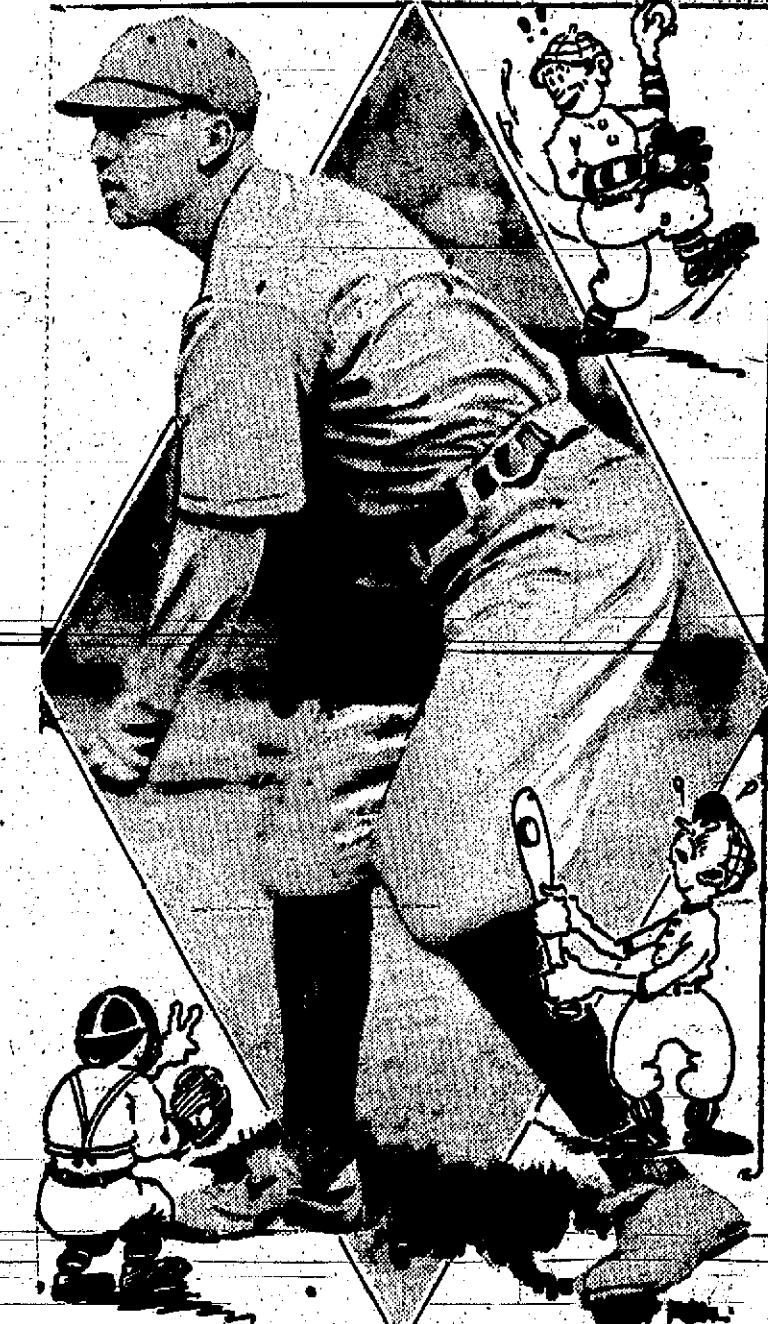

"Boys," he said, "there's the toughest, meanest mule I ever saw in my life. He made me walk all night and I decided that he wouldn't ever do that to another fellow. So I executed him, and I'll be d—d if it didn't take six shots to make him stop kicking!"

Modern Treasure Islands.

Situated in the Pacific ocean, nearly midway between America and Asia, is Nauru, a barren bit of rock only twelve miles in circumference. Thirty or forty years ago almost anybody could have had it for the asking. Today it is worth untold millions, owing to the belated discovery that the whole island is neither more nor less than a mass of phosphate rock, soil fertilizer well known to agriculturists. In conception bay, Newfoundland, is Bell Island, sold by its original owner many years ago for $100. It changed hands again for $2,000,000. This enormous rise in value was due to the discovery that the island is composed almost entirely of iron ore. For years previously shipmasters had been in the habit of taking the heavy, easily handled rock for ballast, dumping it overboard with the utmost unconcern when they loaded up with cargo. Then one day a captain more curious than the others had the strange-looking "rock" assayed and his fortune was made.

BENCH WARMER MAY STAR FOR YANKS

FRANK 'LEFTY' O'DOUL

BY DEAN SNYDER

One year on the bench is a long wait for a big league recruit. It's double time to a youngster who has a sleazebag of pitching talent.

Frank "Lefty" O'Doul batted a thousand as a bench-warmer for the Yankees last season.

His gifted left arm might as well have been in a sling. Huggins was afraid to trust a youngster—one of the most promising of the Pacific Coast League ever sent up to the big show.

But "Lefty" is to get his delayed trial next season.

Hanks With Mails The swap which sent Morfidge and Thormahlen to Boston leaves New York's left-handed pitching business up to Harry Harper and O'Doul.

The California kid will try to make the mite manager regret his oversight.

O'Doul came up to the big show from the Frisco Seals rated as the equal of Walter Mails.

Mails pitched the Cleveland Indians into a pennant by winning seven starts for Tris Speaker.

Cobb Boasts Him Now Huggins is wondering if he had the pennant key on his bench for a whole season and didn't use it to unlock the door.

O'Doul's chief booster—not including the entire Pacific Coast—is Ty Cobb.

"The Detroit club will claim the booster in a minute if Huggins wants to waive him out of the league," says the jewel of Georgia.

That's a mighty fine compliment coming from the highest-salaried player in baseball.

Fans for Him More glory is given the youngster by Oscar Vitt. He thinks "Lefty" has the stuff to make a champion.

O'Doul will be watched with keen interest to see whether Huggins played a good hunch or a lame one in making a wall flower out of a possible star.

Look out for "Lefty" O'Doul in 1921.

BASKETBALL TOPS 'EM ALL

Most Interesting Game to Play and Coach, Says Page

Basketball requires more cleverness than baseball—more speed and endurance than football.

BY H. O. (PAT) PAGE (Former Chicago University Basketball Coach, Now of Butler College)

Every player in his game. In my opinion basketball is the game of games, both to coach and to play.

Interest has grown more in the basket sport in the past decade than in any other form of athletics. Communities in the United States, Canada and the Orient are clamoring for dollsmen to play in.

Fill Every Niche Of course, football is the greatest spectacle in the crisp autumn. Baseball bats a thousand in the good old summer time.

But in every niche of the country basketball absorbs the interest in winter.

Baseball is a game of skill and nerves. Physical power and speed is the gist of football. Basketball combines them all.

Here are reasons why the loop sport tops 'em all: The spectator sees the game at short range.

The spirit of play gets into the spectator. More scoring makes more thrills. Players move faster.

Speed, endurance and cleverness are combined with instinct. The player gets great personal satisfaction in "shooting the bucket."

Two 24-minute periods give the player more physical exertion than any football game and a dozen baseball games.

Passing Asset Basketball cleverness is an asset to the player of any other game. The best forward passers in football have had basketball training.

"Hog" Workman of Ohio state, for instance, is a star court man. "Byck" Muller of California end, throws the pigskin like it was a baseball.

Facts show that a man is actually faster in the indoor court than on the turf. Players are stimulated to quicker action by closer contact with spectators and opponents.

Instinctive Play As in tennis, the fewer players the more the play will be by instinct. Very few players on a football eleven play together more than four years, but in the basket game it is quite common to see the "Wonder Five" train together for five or six years.

No other game gives a coach the opportunity to develop team work by instinct.

It isn't true that the game is too fast for scientific play. The coach has his offensive moves, his defensive tactics and game strategy on the court as on the gridiron or diamond.

Real "Sweet-Up" To cope with the science of basketball I advise a more elaborate scoring system in basket shooting. Give the players credit for an assist (the pass), the putout (the defensive check), and the error (miss, fumble, or "lousy" play).

Basketball has reached the stage of development where some coaches urge players never to guard the man, but to work as forwards and pick the openings as is necessary on the gridiron for the open field runner to do. There's nothing like the basketball "sweet-up."

MAKE FRIENDS WHEN YOU CAN

Reason Why One Man Has Always Sought to Add to His Acquaintance Every Day

My habit is collecting acquaintances. For years I have found pleasure and profit in trying to know as many people as I can. I am never to let the sun set without knowing at least one more person than I did when I started out in the morning.

Why? Life is made up of human relations. As I look at the more human contact I achieve, the taller my life stands. My human contact I don't mean just being in crowds of places where people are. I mean meeting people, getting their points of view, lots of city folk who have plenty of daily opportunity to meet and know people don't get acquainted with as many as a man I know who lives on a farm and never comes to town.

Meeting people is one thing, making friends of getting acquainted with them is another. Inasmuch as human beings are admittedly the most interesting things on earth, why not know as many of them as possible? If there are men who derive pleasure from collecting stamps, rare coins, cases, love letters, dogs, why shouldn't I give a little serious thought to collecting a long list of friends?

And if I am a more successful business man in consequence of having many friends all the better for me. Everybody you know is potentially a help to you. There is no way of telling when the humblest person among your acquaintances may not have momentary importance in something you are trying to do. I once was able to get information that meant a successful contract through the fact that I chanced to be acquainted with the fireman in one of the hotels in San Francisco.

Now there are two ways of getting acquainted with people—by introduction and by getting into casual conversation without introduction. I try to make the most of both these avenues, but I regard the former as the more important of the two.

LOOT STORES OF FIELD NICE North Dakota Indians Raid Caches of Delicacy, but Always Leave Corn in Its Place.

In the northern part of North Dakota there grows a bean which is related to the peanut and of which the Indians of that section are very fond. As each plant bears but a single bean, the labor of gathering them would be very great, but the field mice or that section gather the beans and hide them for winter consumption in underground storehouses.

The Indians know how to locate the caches and in the autumn they go forth and rob them, but the supplies are invariably replaced with corn or some other grain which the Indians have in plenty, so that the little harvesters are not starved out.

The beans have a delicious flavor and are highly prized. In the course of a few days' hunt one Indian may gather two bushels, a few quarts being secured from each of the underground storehouses.

The Indians say that this method of gathering food from mouse hoards dates back to prehistoric times, but the traditions of the tribes protect the mice in that it is taught that dire punishment falls upon those who take the beans without replacing them with corn.—Chicago Journal.

Portable Radiotelephone. The pocket telephone has been brought a step nearer by the assembling of the necessary radiophone apparatus into a compact unit having a weight of about 60 pounds. As a percentage of only six volts to each is required to operate the rectifier and oscillator bulbs the low-capacity "B-type" batteries are dispensed with, according to an illustrated article in the December Popular Mechanics Magazine.

The low voltage required is available almost anywhere, as two six-volt batteries are easily procurable from any automobile battery service station. The new unit is especially designed for the use of motorists, yachtsmen, campers and isolated farms. Under ordinary conditions it is said that the new instrument may be depended upon to operate satisfactorily over distances of from five to fifteen miles.

Sells Gas by the Therm. Under an act placed on the London statute book gas will in future be sold at so much a "therm" instead of so much a thousand feet. A therm is the name given to 100,000 British thermal units, one of the latter being the amount of heat absorbed in raising one pound of water one degree Fahrenheit. The first distributor of gas to announce its charges by the therm is

Her Gift.

A young woman was interested in charity work and in one family where she visited there was a little girl whose hair was the same shade as her own. Wishing to show her appreciation for the visitor's kindness, the child called at her house one day and gave her a package, saying it was a little present for her, then ran away. On opening it out fell the child's lovely hair—the only thing she had in abundance.

SAILORS HOLD ODD BELIEFS

Half-Water Mariners Cling With Tenacity to Many Superstitions, Which Landsmen Laugh at.

Nearly all ships carry a horseshoe. Usually it is nailed somewhere in the stern. The horseshoes have been a fetish with sailors ever since Nelson called one to the mast of the Victory.

Sailors have many superstitions. A sailor who wears a baby's caul feels almost immune from death by drowning. And after a long trip the sailor who first sights land will have a good voyage home. Jack becomes decidedly uneasy if he hears "land-lubber lingo" on the ocean. Therefore, if ever you are a passenger don't let him hear you refer to the deck of a cabin as the "floor," the companion as the "stairs" or the alleyway as the "lobby" or "passage." It is bad form, and unlucky. Whistling at sea stirs up evil winds. A cuttlefish swimming on top of the waves also betokens a storm.

A squall may be expected when an albatross alights on the deck or when a seagull flies between the foremast and the mainmast. But if the seagull flies between the mainmast and the mizzenmast fair winds will prevail. Cats are considered unlucky to have on-board ship. Up to the last twenty years most sailors wore earrings for luck. No sailor will shoot at birds for fear of destruction of his ship. It is unlucky to kill a petrel. These birds, called by sailors "Mother Carey's chickens"—a corruption of "Mare's Care" (mother dearest)—are the sailor's friends. They give warning of an approaching storm. Legend has it that each of these birds bears the soul of a dead seaman.—London Times.

When a Hotel Is "Home." Cincinnati, O.—Judge John W. Peck, in Federal court, holds that if a man's legal residence is in a hotel, he has as much right to store liquor there as a man has at his home. He dismissed a charge against August Brink of the Walnut hotel, where 22 cases of whisky had been seized.

Rudimentary. Conscience Stirred. South Bend, Ind.—The thief who stole $5,500 worth of bonds from Martin Payne's room was considered enough to return them by parcel post when he found they were of no value to him.

Piccadilly's Origin. "Tipperary," the marching song which had such a vogue in 1914, refers to Piccadilly, London, England. One story is that the place was named after the Piccadilly hall, where a certain kind of lace much in vogue during the reign of Queen Elizabeth was made. The lace was called piccadilly because of its spear points, a diminutive of pike or spear. Piccadilly was once famous for its gambling houses. In some of these, ran by Walter, the prince regent's cook, Beau Brummel won $75,000 in ten minutes and insisted upon giving one-half to Sheridan.

More than 90 per cent of the world's present supply of diamonds comes from the mines of South Africa.

COWBOYS WILL HERD REINDEER

Alaska Will Be the Scene of Roundups-Like Those of the Western Plains.

HERD TOTALS NEARLY 200,000

Reindeer Industry of the North Is Growing Rapidly and There Is an Insistent Call for Experienced Frontiersmen.

San Francisco.—From the wild North come the call for the sons of the old wild West.

And with his swagger and trapping the man of the ranges is preparing to answer the call. From Montana, California, Oregon, Nevada and the Dakota cowboys are getting ready to leave the drive and picturesque round-ups to "ride herd" on the last frontiers of civilization, the subarctic barrens of Alaska.

Instead of Texas longhorns they will "punch" the pronghorns of the Bering, the Alaskan reindeer. In place of flaring chaps and flapping zombrows, they will wear heavy boots, three pairs of socks, parkies and heavy fur caps. They will ride behind swift Eskimo dogs or hike it on snowshoes.

The call for experienced, seasoned frontiersmen is insistent. For the reindeer industry of the north is pretty closely following the historical development of the old western range.

Herd Total 200,000

The 80 scrubby, half-starved reindeer, imported into Alaska from Siberia in 1902 by the government as an experiment in food supply for the natives, have grown to nearly 200,000 head at present, valued at approximately $80 each. It is expected that within 15 years the herd will number between ten and twenty-five millions, the grazing capacity of Alaska.

Already the industry is being considered as serious competition for the big meat packers of the United States. Last year only 1,700 carcasses were shipped; 11,000 will be shipped in 1920, it is estimated.

Five cold-storage plants, with a capacity of 1,000 to 5,000 carcasses each, are now in operation, with more in contemplation, and refrigerator ships are to be put on between Seattle and Alaska immediately.

Leaders in the new industry say the herds will increase 125 per cent every three years, so that, in 15 years, 8,000,000 carcasses will be shipped yearly. The meat, selling now at 85 cents per pound wholesale, will then sell at 15 cents per pound retail, according to Jafet Linderbeck, largest private owner of reindeer in Alaska.

Reindeer can be raised in Alaska at little or no cost other than their care. They feed upon the reindeer moss, and one man can care for 2,000 head.

Each year rodeos, similar to the famous old "round-ups" of the wild West days, are held. From hundreds of miles around, natives drive in behind their swiftest reindeer, head herders are chosen and preparations made for the next year's business. For the natives and deer men are looking upon Alaska as the future Texas of the world as a meat supplying center.

But if Americans wish this delicacy they must prepare to outbid Europe, says Linderbeck, who maintains that every pound of reindeer meat, up to the maximum capacity of Alaska, can be sold to Europeans, who are willing to pay almost any price demanded.

Hands Cut Off by One Train, Legs by Another

One train cut off the legs of Walter Frantz, eleven years old, of Detroit, Mich., and almost at the same instant, a second train, going in the opposite direction, cut off his hands when he fell between two passing cars.

The boy was playing on a box car when a switch engine backed down and struck the cars, throwing the boy to the ground with his feet under the car on which he had been playing. His hands fell on the parallel track and the second train went over them.

She Buried the Wrong Husband. Portsmouth, O.—Mrs. George Willis thinks some one else should pay the funeral expenses of a man she buried under the impression that he was her husband. She identified a mutilated body along the railroad tracks as that of her husband, who had disappeared several weeks before. Now the husband, who had been working in the northern part of the state, has returned home, denying that he is dead. Mrs. Willis is wondering whose husband she buried.

Woman Traps Mountain Lion. Los Angeles, Cal.—A woman trapper, said to be the only one in California, is making a good income in the vicinity of Lompoc, according to news from Santa Barbara, in capture of animals on which bounties are paid. Mrs. John Houk of Lompoc is the woman, and the most recent catch consisted of one mountain lion, five coyotes, nine coons and two polecats.

WOG-LIST EVIDENCE NEARLY IN

One Contestant Denied That He Was Acquainted in Districts Where Fraud Is Alleged

DEPOSITIONS SUBMITTED

Oral Testimony Is Limited to Parties Interested in Contest Action

The reading of depositions from election officials consumed the entire morning session before the election committee of the senate in the contest of B. J. List for the senate seat of Gust Wog of Billings county and will be completed late today after the adjournment of the senate.

Election officials admitted that they showed voters how to mark their ballots and that they into the booths with them alone, while the law requires that two should go in. Fred Kessel, judge at Green River, said that not more than five of fifty voters knew how to read English and said that nearly all called for Nonpartisan when asking directions. Like conditions existed at Sentinel Butte and Indian Springs, with more than enough votes to swing the election to List, where the latter obtained only four or five votes in all.

Attorneys expect to complete the hearing tonight. Should List win, the independents would gain control of the house. If there should be a straight party vote on the contest with Wog not voting, the vote would be tie and Lieutenant Governor Wood, Nonpartisan, would have the deciding vote. Election officials of Sentinel Butte also testified. H. C. France, inspector, said that there was no electioneering; no marked ballots in the booth; that election officials assisted voters only when requested; that the election officials were not paid by Wog or others to help the Nonpartisan ticket, and that he saw some election cards, which apparently had been brought to the polls by voters.

Frank Kessel of Sentinel Butte testified to the same effect and said that most voters requested assistance to vote the farmers or Nonpartisan vote League ticket and that he had made an announcement he would help voters, thinking that it was proper for one official to go into election booths with voters.

Ignatz Obregavich, judge, denied that he had paid anyone to cast ballots at their request and that many asked him if they had marked their ballots for Nonpartisans as he said they wished to.

Gust Wog, whose place as senator from the 39th district is contested by R. J. List, denied before the senate election committee that he was personally acquainted in the precincts in which it is alleged fraud was committed which gave him the senatorship, declared he made no active campaign in those districts and asserted that he never paid money to anyone for services during the campaign.

By a ruling of the senate committee, which Senator Hanson, chairman, said had stipulated by attorneys, the oral testimony in the contest case being heard in the Bismarck county courthouse, was limited to Senator Wog and R. J. List, the contestant. A large volume of depositions composed of major testimony in the matter.

When the hearing was resumed late yesterday afternoon Mr. Wog was placed on the stand. The case was resumed this morning at 9 o'clock.

Dealing Paying Money.

Mr. Wog said he was a farmer and rancher and had lived in Billings county for thirteen years. He formerly lived in Minnesota and said he spoke English and Swedish.

"Section 12 of the notice of contest alleges on information and belief that several officials were paid money to illegally mark ballots," said Leslie Simpson, attorney for Wog, and asked, "Did you pay any money to anyone for this purpose?"

"No," answered Wog.

The three precincts to which the evidence was limited, Simpson said, were Indian Springs, Sentinel Butte and Green River.

"Are you personally acquainted in those precincts?" asked Simpson.

"No."

"Did you make an active campaign in those precincts?"

"No."

Wog said he spent about $30 in the campaign, as nearly as he could remember.

On cross examination Judge Crawford asked Wog if he had not talked to various persons before the election about the precincts.

"Did not you and other parties go out and canvass the situation before you took depositions?" Judge Crawford asked.

"No," Wog answered.

"Did not Mr. Eaton say to you before the election that you need not go into those precincts—that he'd take care of you?"

"No."

Few Speak English.

On direct examination Wog said that he believed a very small majority of people in the three precincts could speak English, but qualified it on cross-examination and said that the majority of the people in the precincts were Russians, Ukrainians, Slovaks, Slovenians, and that few spoke or wrote the English language.

Attorney Mackoff read from the depositions for an hour. They were given mostly by foreigners, and the answers, which had been given thru interpreters, created considerable mistrust. It is the contention of the contestant that election officials marked ballots for foreigners and violated the election laws in other ways.

Little Gray Cottage Is Clara Hamon's Refuge

Clara Hamon and "The Little Gray Home in the West" where she awaits trial for murder.

Ardmore, Okla., Jan. 13.—A "Little Gray Home in the West" is the present refuge of Clara Smith Hamon, charged with the murder of Jake L. Hamon, oil multimillionaire and Republican national committeeman, in her sister's little cottage at Wilson, Okla.

If one were to retrace the trail that brought her there one would find it originated in a similarly humble cot 27 years ago.

Her parents were folks of little means.

Clara was a clerk in a Lawton store ten years ago when Hamon met her. She gave up her clerk's apron for finery.

Then came Hamon's death from the muzzle of a pistol; Clara Smith's flight, surrender and release on bail.

The road took a sudden twist to the old environment.

Clara Smith Hamon again lives in a humble home.

Thinking of the gloss and the glare of the past, she wonders in what direction Fate will send her way next.

Will Hamon's will make her a beneficiary?

If freed of the murder charge, will she return to a life of luxury?

Or will she again tread the heavy road and live in a "little gray home"?

SENATE PASSES BILL GIVING LEMKE FUNDS

Appropriation Measure Gives Attorney General $10,000 More

BILL IS AMENDED

Propaganda Portion Removed by Committee—Refuse to Hear Langer

The senate yesterday afternoon by a vote of 26 to 23 passed the appropriation bill giving William Lemke $10,000 additional money for his office up to July 1, 1921, the end of the fiscal year. Senator E. H. Kendall of McHenry was the only independent voting for it.

Senator Peterson of Sargent, while the appropriations committee of the senate had the bill under consideration in the morning, moved that General Langer be called before the committee and explain the condition of the attorney general's fund. The Nonpartisan members, however, voted the motion down and a report was adopted cutting down the appropriation and recommending the passage of the bill.

Cuts Out Part.

The committee also in revising the bill cut out alleged propaganda.

Independents objected strenuously to the wording of the bill, which they say alleges that there is a deficit when there is none.

Deny Deficit.

Independents assert that Attorney General Lemke has more than his share left of the money available for use of his department for the fiscal year from July 1, 1920, to July 1, 1921. They cite figures secured from the state auditor on January 6, by Maddock of Benson, a Nonpartisan member of the budget board.

These figures, they claim, show that Mr. Lemke was entitled to $3,300 of the money available on July 1, 1920, for the attorney general's department for his share of the half-year, while he actually had on January 6, $11,383.34.

There is a deficit in the department for clerk hire, on the basis of Mr. Maddock's figures of $775, and in the miscellaneous fund of $89.97. There is, however, they assert, more than that amount coming back from the various counties to these funds as the share of the counties in the expenses of the railroad tax suit. But allowing these deficits as deficits, there remains $2,933 more than Mr. Lemke's share because of the surplus in many of the departments, as $1,750 for salary of first assistant over and (Continued on page 2)

LUNCHEON ON MONDAY

Meeting to Be Held on That Day Will Complete Organization Work

Organization work for the Burling county committee which will conduct the campaign on Jan. 18 and 19 for a fund to go to the relief of starving children in central and eastern Europe is progressing rapidly. J. N. Roherty is chairman of the Burling county committee. Mrs. D. M. Register has been named chairman for the women committee of Bismarck.

The appeal for the children of central and eastern Europe, "Receiving nations' attention," the appeal first was made through the Literary Digest, which gave $25,000 to start the fund, and which has raised more than a million dollars. Herbert Hoover is taking an active interest in the campaign, and representatives of all overseas agencies have endorsed it.

Mr. Roherty today announced the names of members of the committee asked to serve in Burling county outside of Bismarck. They are W. S. Personson, of Wing; Frank Prater, of Arena; H. A. Knudson, of Driscoll; M. M. Christensen, of Wing; Irvin Small, of Bismarck; Lynn Sperry, of Bismarck; Victor Anderson, of Wing; L. L. Rockwood, of Moffit; W. Burch, of Bismarck; P. Bliss, of McKenzie; G. Ogelson, of Wing; Geo. Day, of Britton; W. S. Scott, of Arena; H. Wildfang, of Sterling; Adolph Exner, of Braddock; J. F. Little, of Regan; A. S. Garness, of Regan; and H. A. McIntyre.

Mr. Bolster has been designated county treasurer and D. M. Register and Robert Webb have been named as the advertising committee. Complete membership of local committees will be announced in a few days. A luncheon will be given Monday noon at the McKenzie at which the campaign will be discussed.

General Strike Feared as Adjustment Seems Almost Improbable

Vienna, Jan. 13.—Tension over the existing economic and political situation in the Austrian republic seems to be increasing. Doors of the big hotels in Vienna are shuttered at dusk because of communist demonstrations against them as symbols of profiteering.

Postal employees announce they have called a strike. Mail collection ceased at 8 o'clock last night and telephone and telegraph service will be suspended if matters are not settled before that time.

MANY ARRESTS MADE

Drunk and Speeding Charges Loom Most Frequent in the Report

The annual report of Chief of Police Chris Mattinson, submitted to the city commission, shows that the activities of the police have a wide range, varying from arrests for various charges to finding lost children and fastening down windows found unsecured in business houses at night. During last year there were 198 arrests made, and stolen property recovered is listed as of value of $15,000. Fines Mount Up
The report shows that fines collected by the police magistrate amounted to $1,549.95, which is said to be the largest ever collected in one year. The report shows that Bismarck is singularly free from crime of serious nature which, according to city officials, is due to the fact that the closest inspection is made of suspicious characters who drop into the city. COMMERCIAL STATUS OF STATE IS CONSIDERED

Fargo, Jan. 12.—Five important phases of the commercial situation in North Dakota, especially as related to the implement business will be considered by the implement dealers of the state when they meet here in annual convention, Jan. 26-28. These are:
The financial situation.
The manufacturers' attitude for 1921.
The future from the wholesale dealers standpoint.
The attitude of retail dealers toward the farm organization movement, and the dealers relation to his home community.
J. J. Farley, of Valley City, chairman of the executive council, North Dakota Bankers association, will discuss "Financing the Farmer" on the afternoon of the 26th.

BALLOONISTS HAVE QUARREL ON ARRIVAL

Lieut. Farrell Strikes Hinton Following Wordy Dispute Over Rescue

Mattice, Ontario, Jan. 12.—United States navy lieutenant Stephen Farrell, Al Kloor, and Walter Hinton, fresh from their first night's sleep in complete comfort since setting out from the frozen Hudson Bay region where they landed on Sept. 14 after a hazardous balloon trip today enjoyed this trading post's hospitality preparatory to their departure for Toronto.
They were guests of officials of the Canadian National railroad which provided a private car in which they spent the night. They expected to arrive in Toronto Friday.
To all outward appearances the bitter dispute which arose between Lieut. Farrell and Hinton shortly after their arrival which culminated in a blow from Farrell which sent his fellow airman sprawling over a table in the home of Wm. Williamson had been settled today.

WITHHOLD DECISION.
Washington, Jan. 12.—Decision as to appointment of a naval court inquiry into the personal clash at Mattice yesterday between the American naval balloonists, Lieut. Hinton and Farrell, is being withheld pending further reports. Secretary Daniels said today. The secretary added that it was to be expected that there should have been any personal conflict between the young men who "had endured great hardships and set new standards."
Reports to the navy department concerning the balloonists trip and events that have followed have been lamentably meager, the secretary added.

GROCERY THIEF GETS AWAY WITH $150,000 LOOT

Chicago, Jan. 12.—Business became good here for a gang of grocery thieves who stole from delivery wagons that they had to open several retail stores to dispose of their plunder more readily.

Police so declared in announcing they had accounted for thefts of meat, tea and other groceries valued at $150,000 with the arrest of seven members of the gang. One of the gang told where a stolen truck load of butter could be found. It was abandoned, he said, because it was found not to be "up to our standards."

WHEAT DECLINED; MARKET SLOW

Chicago, Jan. 12.—Wheat prices declined today, influenced by an apparent pause in export buying. Opening prices which varied from unchanged figures to 3 cents lower were followed by material setbacks all-around.

Subsequently sharp advances took place owing more or less to reports for the first time this season was buying hard winter wheat in Omaha. The close was unsettled 3 1/4 to 4 1/4 cents net higher.

"BEAUTY SPOTS"

Chicago doctors are busy scratching arms. Every family physician is urging his patients to be inoculated against smallpox and public health officials admit they are worried by the steady spread of the epidemic in East Chicago. Dr. H. E. Betz is shown vaccinating Miss Agnes Vern. Girls don't mind the scars, Dr. Betz said; rather, they regard them as "beauty spots."

JAMESTOWN MAN DIES IN CALIF.

Jamestown, N. D., Jan. 12.—W. B. S. Trimble, one of the pioneer residents of Jamestown and interested extensively in the land business in North Dakota and Canada, is dead at his home in Pasadena, Calif., according to word received here. He was president of the Trimble Land company of Jamestown.

LIGGETT ASKS INVESTIGATION

Washington, Jan. 12.—A congressional investigation of Commissioner of Immigration Camannetti was recommended today by Walter W. Liggett, deputy labor commissioner of North Dakota. He charged that the commissioner had an "obsession" on the deportation of aliens, as much so that he practically refused to think of getting immigrant labor into the country, and was bent only on getting aliens out of the country. He based his charges on personal experience he said he had with the commissioner.

He has been trying to induce the immigration office to call a conference of state and federal immigration, agricultural and labor officials to work out a program of "selective admission and distribution" of alien labor, so that labor shortages in North Dakota and other agricultural sections may be relieved. He emphasized that 20,000,000 acres of land in North Dakota would go unutilized next year because of labor shortage. Liggett opposed the one-year alien reversion bill now pending before the committee.

MANY HAVE HICCUGHS IN MILL CITY

Minneapolis, Jan. 12.—While hiccoughs are reported to be attacking hundreds of persons in Minneapolis, C. W. Simmons, 3048 Fifth avenue south, was believed to present a record case among the victims.
He began hiccoughing last Thursday and continued without interruption for three days. During that period many remedies were tried and three physicians were consulted without result. The hiccoughs finally abated and stopped apparently, of their own accord.

WOULD HAVE RELIGIOUS TRAINING IN SCHOOLS

Minneapolis, Jan. 12.—First steps seeking to introduce religious training into the public school system of Minneapolis were taken today by the Minnesota Federation of Ministers at the Y. M. C. A. at a noon meeting. A proposal to appoint a committee to study introduction of a course into the schools was approved.

American Indian a Mystery.

The origin of the American Indian is a matter of dispute. Ethnologists, the Indian resembles most closely certain Mongolian and Siberian peoples. It is, therefore, believed by most authorities that his ancestors crossed from Asia to Alaska and thence down the coast of North America.

ASSERTS TAXES OF STATE KEEP UP HOTEL RATES

President of Association Sees No Lowering in North Dakota

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 12.—Travelers in North Dakota must be educated not to expect any material reduction in the hotel rates, H. A. Leimbacher, president of the State Hotel and Restaurant Keepers association, told members in annual convention here today. High tax rates in the state were to blame for the situation, he said.
Mr. Leimbacher referred to the fact that materials used in the business of providing food and lodging had increased in price and that hotels and restaurants of this state are reducing prices. He added, however, that taxes on a local hotel which he manages have increased from $3,600 in 1917 to $7,700 in 1920.
The six-day week for hotel employees will eventually bring "a higher grade of intelligence" and "a purer moral tone" into the business in North Dakota, he said.

TRENTON BANK IS SHATTERED

Minot, N. D., Jan. 12.—The State Bank of Trenton, N. D., 10 miles west of Williston, near the Montana line, was badly damaged last night by yegs, who tried to blow the safe. The door of the vault was blown through the frame front of the building. The robbers secured nothing as the door on the safe inside the vault remained in place.

Waking Sleep-Walkers.

Some sleep-walkers may be awakened by being gently touched or called; others by a flash of light, by stumbling in their wanderings, or by setting their feet in water. Others remain so heavily asleep that it is necessary to shake them vigorously before they show signs of waking. But sometimes it is not wise to wake the sleep-walker at all, and there have been cases where sudden rousings have proved fatal.

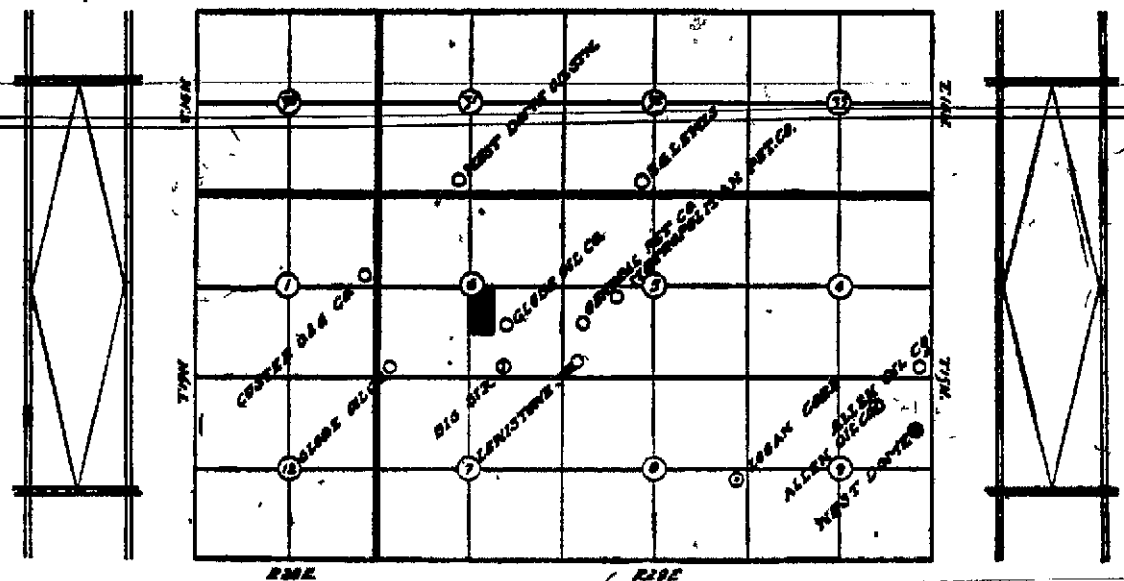

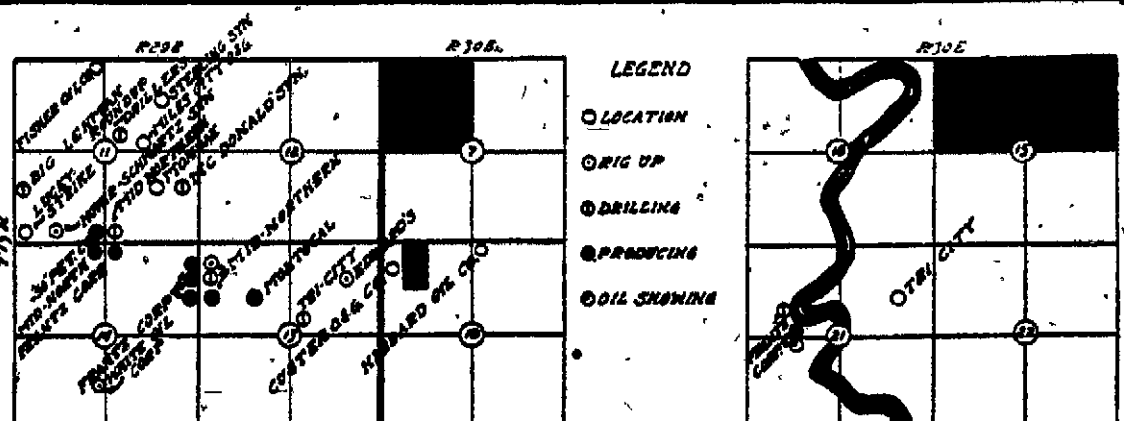

Black Cap's Significance.

The custom of putting on a black cap—really a square of black cloth—while judges in England do when sentencing a prisoner to death, originated from the custom of covering the head as a sign of mourning in ancient times. The judge, in putting on the black cap, mutes the fact that he is about to order a life to be forfeited.

BAKER SYNDICATE

Joe B. Baker, (Founder of "56"), President
CAPITAL $150,000 UNITS $100.00 EACH

Big oil fortunes were made by those who followed Joe B. Baker in the 56 Petroleum—the first "Baker Syndicate."
More fortunes—thousands for every hundred dollars that are now invested—are possible from the holdings of the BAKER SYNDICATE on ALL THREE proven pools in Cat Creek.
Investors who followed Joe Baker in "56" are backing him again in the biggest project of his life. He is the "fortune-maker" on Cat Creek, this man from Miles City, and those who know his caliber and the merit of his proposition are banking on him to win.
He is sure that he will win for himself and his associates—much surer than when he got the "56" lease—and by April he is confident the Baker Syndicate will be in the dividend paying class.
Two rigs are being shipped from Wichita Falls, and in three weeks should be drilling on leases of the Baker Syndicate. In a shorter time than it takes most companies to organize, Baker Syndicate expects to be to the pay sand and to have wells producing the "liquid gold" that will pay thousands to unit holders.
Use the coupon attached below in securing today as large an interest as you can in this real syndicate with real money-making possibilities. When drilling is started the price of units will be advanced from $100 to $200. Then this opportunity will be gone forever.

LAND IRRIGATED BY INDIANS

Before the Advent of the Spaniards the System Was in Vogue Among the Aborigines.

Irrigation began in Texas many years before the lands embraced within its boundaries became a part of the United States, years before those same lands made up what was known as the Lone Star republic, writes James R. Preddy in the American Forestry Magazine.

To bring the time down to a more tangible date, the first irrigation work was done according to tradition, when the Pueblo Indians constructed the peculiar ditches about El Paso and the Pecos country, which authorities of today claim were built for irrigation purposes. Another tradition coming out of the past tells that these ditches were built by the Xuma Indians when they were driven westward by the Comanches and Apaches, and not by the Pueblos.

When Coronado, the roving explorer, opened this country to the Spaniards he found well-worked irrigation systems among the Indians; this was in 1540 when he was pushing toward the north. The practice of irrigation was continued under the Franciscan fathers, who constructed the five mission ditches that were found near the present city of San Antonio. Even under Mexican rule the work did not stop, and grants by the Mexican government often read as follows:

"In the name of the Mexican nation, grants him one day of water with its corresponding labor of land."

The Novel-Writer.
What am I, a novel writer, trying to do? I am trying, with such limited means as I have at my disposal, to make little pocket-theaters out of words. I am trying to be architect, scene painter, upholsterer, dramatist and stage manager, all at once. Is it any wonder if we novelists do not succeed as well as we could wish when we try to be masters of so many trades?—F. Marion Crawford.

"CHIP EDWARDS" DELIGHTS AUDIENCE AT AUDITORIUM; LOCAL CAST IS GIVEN EXCEPTIONAL PRAISE FOR PERFORMANCE

"Chip Edwards" delighted a large audience at the Auditorium last night. The clever comedy-drama was performed by a cast which handled the amusing situations and dramatic moments in a manner which would do credit to an all-professional group.
When the curtain rose it was announced that Slade Taylor would take the part previously assigned to Frank Snyder, who gave it up because of the death of a relative which necessitated his absence from the city during the period of rehearsal.

Miss Berglot Caspary as "The Girl" and Miss Vivian Dolan as "Kitty" won the plaudits of the audience. Miss Caspary's perfect diction, poise and stage presence added greatly to the performance. Miss Dolan's impersonation of a New York shop girl was a distinct feature of the evening, bringing a personal tribute from the audience. R. Sherman Wright as "The Other Man" and Frank Barker, director of the play, as "The Crackman," performed in an accomplished manner.

Following the performance a dance was given in Elks' hall, which was attended by a large crowd. Through the manager of the benefit for the Ancient Order of United Workmen band was beset with many difficulties approximately $50 was realized for the band. The band is expected to make a public appearance during the spring in new uniforms.

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITY

Old, established manufacturer of a nationally known standard automobile tire offers an exceptionally fine opportunity to local distributor who can handle same in connection with present business or as a separate business.

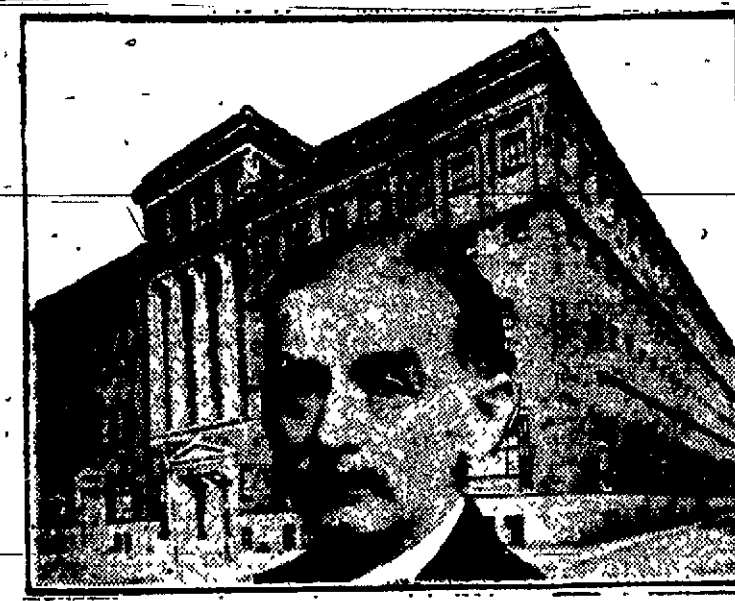

Under the proposed plan of operation the business should show a net profit of $5,000.00 the first year and can be steadily built up thereafter.

Due to the permanent and staple character of this proposition some capital or financial backing will be required.

The opportunity presented will appeal strongly to a young, growing concern seeking additional business and profits or to an industrious, business building salesman who is ambitious to create and own a profitable and permanent business.

Appointment for personal conference can be arranged by letter.

Syllabus.
Frank Billings, Respondent, vs.
G. Doering Grain Company, a co-partnership or sole trader, composed of G. Doering, appellant.
In an action against the warehouseman for an accounting where it appeared that the plaintiff from time to time had delivered wheat to the defendant for storage under an oral contract covering the storage rate and an agreement as to advances, and where storage receipts evidencing a different contract were not issued until long after the delivery of the wheat, and when issued were ante-dated; and where the defendant, pursuant to notice, had closed the storage account sending the plaintiff a check for an amount which was insufficient to discharge its obligations under the storage tickets, the defendant receiving the check and cashing it without agreeing to accept it in full satisfaction, it is held:
1. Where there was no dispute as to the terms of the original oral contract as to the number of bushels or the amount of the cash advances, and the only basis for dispute arose out of ante-dated tickets, providing for a different rate of storage than that previously agreed upon, the acceptance of a check purporting to represent the "balance due" does not amount to an accord and satisfaction of an undischarged demand.

2. The tender and acceptance of a check purporting to be for a "balance due" where no condition or statement of the consideration was written in the check and where there was no prior disagreement or discussion as to the amount actually due, does not establish an agreement on the part of the creditor to receive the check in full satisfaction.
3. An obligation is not extinguished by an accord and satisfaction under Sections 5824 and 5827, C. L. 1915, unless there be a written agreement and acceptance of the consideration thereof by the creditor.
4. Where the plaintiff brought an action for an accounting for grain stored with the defendant, demanding money judgment, and it appears that the defendant had disposed of the grain soon after its delivery and had closed the storage account, the plaintiff has a right to an adjudication of the proper allowance for storage charges, interest on advances and the price at which the defendant should be charged for the grain and in these circumstances the fact that he did not demand the grain is immaterial.
5. Where the storage tickets gave the plaintiff a right to demand grain at the terminals or terminal bonded warehouse receipts, and where the local cash buying was on the basis of future options, it was inequitable to credit the plaintiff on the basis of future options instead of the higher cash price at the terminal market, where the defendant did not have the wheat on hand and was not required to buy wheat locally to fulfill its obligations under the storage tickets.

In a proceeding for the exercise of the superintending control of the Supreme Court, where it appears that the defendant in a criminal action filed a double affidavit of prejudice against both the trial judge and the county and judicial sub-division, and thereupon the trial judge so disqualified made an order transferring the criminal cause from Ward County to Ramsey County, without designating the judge who should preside at the trial in the transferred county, as the statute requires, and where, further, it appears upon the showing made at the hearing before the Supreme Court that a fair and impartial trial in Ramsey County, for either the State or the defendant is doubtful, and where, further, under the peculiar circumstances surrounding the case involved, as stated in the opinion, it is appropriate that the superintending control of this court be exercised in the interests of justice to the end that a speedy and early trial be had without remanding the case again to the judge so disqualified for the consideration of the entry of another proper order herein subject possibly to another application to this court, it is held that the supreme court, under its superintending control, will designate, as required by statute, the county and will direct the District Judges in the Judicial District to which the transfer of the cause has been ordered to designate the trial judge to preside at the trial of such criminal action.

IF YOU'RE ONE AMONG 167,438, WRITE PROFESSOR MICHELSON

(N. E. A. Staff Special)
Chicago, Jan. 13.—Prof. A. A. Michelson, America's leading physicist, has solved a problem that the whole world has been wondering about, yet—
If he sat right down with an audience of a million Americans and explained his solution, only one person out of 167,438 would be capable of understanding it.
Michelson is weighing and measuring the stars visible only in the greatest telescopes.
When announcement of his invention, he cited the measurement of one star that makes our little sun look like a piker. Said star is a mere matter of 27,000,000 times as large.
Consider a pea in relation to Mount McKinley, and you'll have what the earth would look like if placed beside Michelson's pet star, Alpha Orionis. The Michelson instrument, now attached to the great telescope at Mount Wilson Observatory in California, measures to one-ten-thousandth of a degree of accuracy.

It is built on the principle of measuring light first used by Michelson and Morley in Cleveland, O., and now famous as the principle that made possible the science shaking Einstein theory, which only 13 men in the world can fully understand.
Michelson was born in Germany, came to America early in life and was graduated from the Annapolis Naval Academy, with a commission. He left the navy and has since held chairs in various universities.
Explanation of the new star-measuring principle is not printed here. If you think you are one out of 167,438 who can understand it, you may write to Michelson at the physics department of the University of Chicago for the dope.

A World Without Petroleum

ELIMINATE petroleum from the world and modern industry would come to a dead stop.

Lacking that tiny film of mineral oil, continuously applied, and the machinery of the world would groan to a standstill.

From air compressors to textile spindles, from sewing machines to power house engines, all the machinery of modern life, the machinery which clothes and feeds, and transports mankind, is dependent upon petroleum.

Animal fats and vegetable oils sufficed for lubrication in the era which preceded the industrial age, but only petroleum could supply lubricants in sufficient quantities to keep pace with the development of modern machinery.

In the development of our modern system of lubricating machinery, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has performed an essential service in producing a vast number of highest grade lubricating oils and greases from petroleum.

Another vital service of the Company is the maintenance of a distribution system which delivers its lubricants wherever, and whenever, the need occurs.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) manufactures lubricating oils and greases varying in type and consistency to meet the requirements of the innumerable machines which our commercial age requires.

Only a highly specialized and intensively developed organization could give to the people of the Middle West the service rendered by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

The customer who buys a pound of grease, a quart of oil, or a gallon of gasoline, is getting the result of the best effort of 23,000 loyal, efficient, highly trained men and women who make up the personnel of this organization.

BURNS EXPECTS END TO CRIME

Master Detective Thinks It Will Exhaust Itself in Six Months

BY E. M. THIERRY
New York, Jan. 13.—William J. Burns, master detective, predicts the crime wave will exhaust itself within six months.

Burns intimates police in all big cities could put a tighter check on crime.

He advocates thorough investigation of police departments not exerting every effort to minimize crime.

"What is the cause of the crime wave?" was asked Burns.

"History shows that a wave of crime has followed every war. We have just had the greatest war, and now the greatest crime wave."

How War Beated

"Just how did the war increase criminality?"

"We suddenly took 3,000,000 young men from all walks of life, taught them the arts of war and then put them on the battlefields. Many lost their sense of proportion; human life came to mean little."

"When, as suddenly, they were released from the army, many didn't want to go back to the ordinary pursuits of life. They craved excitement. And they turned to crime to get it."

"What effect did prohibition have on crime?"

"It is responsible, of course, for more moonshining and bootlegging. But I believe prohibition has wiped out many of the associates that were breeding places for criminals."

"How can the crime wave be checked?"

"By efficient work by police and prosecutors."

"What will happen if the crime wave is not checked quickly?"

"Nothing to cause alarm. It cannot continue, anyway. Within six months the crime wave will have disappeared and we will be back, automatically, to normal conditions."

SOUTH DAKOTA WOULD BAN NEW DANCES

Pierre, S. D., Jan. 13.—Varying opinions are expressed as to the reasons why the names of certain once popular dances should be stricken from the South Dakota statutes, as proposed in a bill introduced in the upper house of the legislature by Senator Irving I. Crawford of Deadwood.

"Hoedown, Koochie, Grizzly Bear, Turkey Trot, Snake Wreath and Bunny Hug" are the dancing characterizations that are to be eliminated if the bill is successful. The law, passed in 1918, which would be altered, reads as follows: "with the proposed elimination indicated by parentheses."

"It shall be unlawful for any person to do or attempt to do or take part in (certain forms of) kinds of dances, commonly known or called the Hoedown, Koochie, Grizzly Bear, Turkey Trot, Snake Wreath or Bunny Hug or any suggestive or immoral dances."

AUDIT FIRM SUES FARMERS MUTUAL SOCIETY

St. Paul, Jan. 12.—Bishop, Brissman & Co., St. Paul public accountants, started a legal fight before Judge C. C. Haupt and a jury in district court to collect $413.75, alleged due from the Co-operative Wholesale Society of America, for an audit of the books of that concern early last year.

A counter claim has been made for $10,000 by the co-operative concern for alleged damages done the business by which the society alleges was a misleading and erroneous report.

The society also seeks $417.50 for other audits which they had made after the Bishop, Brissman & Co. audit.

Charles S. Kidder, attorney for Bishop, Brissman & Co., charged in his opening statement to the jury that the financial condition of the company as disclosed by the report of the audit did not suit the members of the co-operative society, who were seeking an audit for the purpose of going before the State Securities commission to obtain permission to sell stock.

'CO-OP' CIGARETS

Kentucky Tobacco Growers Plan to Make Them

Lexington, Ky., Jan. 13.—Kentucky tobacco growers are planning to put "co-op" cigarettes on the market.

They predict these cigarettes will break the high prices.

The cooperative factory idea, follows the collapse of the loose leaf market.

One pound of Kentucky tobacco makes 550 cigarettes.

They now sell for one cent or more each.

Manufacturers offer tobacco growers 28 cents a pound.

Growers say this means the cigarette makers get $3.50 for what costs them 28 cents plus cost of manufacture.

"Is that fair?" ask the growers.

FRANCIS E. FAULKNER

NIGHT RESTORED—Francis E. Faulkner is shown reading for the first time in more than three years. He's a Chicago boy who was invited to a dinner given by a physician for blind children. The doctor noticed that he seemed to be able to tell when dark objects passed his eyes. Investigation and treatment followed.

above the $3,000 which he should have in this fund.

Envelopes on Hand.

Besides this, they point out, there were "stamped" envelopes on hand to $600 in value.

Mr. Lemke claims $2,000 of an emergency fund appropriated for the railroad tax case. As this case is disposed of, Independents assert he had no right to any of this. But, granting him half of this, there is still including the envelopes on hand, $3,833.00 more than he should have, which amount does not include the money, approximately $900, due to the attorney general's department from the counties.

Besides this, Mr. Lemke, says the Independents, has at his disposal in other funds, all controlled by himself, $70,836.38.

Balance in Fund.

The governor's fund for special attorneys, created by the special session of the legislature, has a balance of $9,051.95 out of the $25,000 appropriated for the fiscal year. This bill was passed by the Nonpartisan majority when the appropriation for the attorney general's office was cut. Independents say, to get back at Attorney General Langer who had attacked some of the measures passed at the regular session and had broken with Town.

The state emergency commission, which is controlled by Mr. Lemke, has $36,937.49 on hand, any part of which may be used for expenses of the attorney general's office.

The railroad commission has a balance of $15,820.61 in its public utility fund, which may be used in the railroad case.

Has Other Funds.

George E. Walcott, a commissioner, has a balance of $3,335.92 in his contingency fund, which may be used in fighting tax cases.

Thus, the attorney general now has at his disposal $32,279.70, all of which he may use if he desires for his department, declares the Independents in summary, but granting that half of this may be used for other purposes, he would still have $15,139.85 of which $24,044.39 cannot be used for any other purpose and adding the $900 due from the counties, it is $21,944.39, which if multiplied by four would give him for a two-year period $87,777.56. This does not take into consideration the money which the state industries expend for attorney fees.

Senator Church, while the bill was under consideration, attempted to secure unanimous consent for the addition of the word "three" assistants, but was called by Senator Storstad who objected on the ground that the special session in 1919 limited the assistants to two.

Report Killed.

A minority report from the appropriations committee, Independent members, for indefinite postponement was killed. On the emergency clause the vote of 26 to 23 killed off the possibility of Lemke receiving any money until July 1.

Although no debate occurred several senators explained their votes.

Baird: "I am willing that the attorney general should have all the money that is necessary, but feel that he should have the power to name his assistants and say and do what he needs. However, I do not like the language of the bill. It is alleged that there is a deficiency, but no report of a deficiency has been made in fact I understand there is a surplus. I vote no."

Church: "The attorney general in the last six months spent $10,923.09 on bills unpaid and only $7,755 balance for the six months term. I vote yes. There is a default."

Kendall, Independent: "I was a member of the committee and it was proven to me not to be enough money. I vote yes."

Nees Objects.

Mees, Independent: "I have always attempted to vote consistently and have always contended and do so now, that all the states legal interests should be centralized. I heartily agree that too much money has been spent by the state for attorney fees in the last six months. I hope no one accuses me of being a personal friend of William Lemke, present incumbent of the attorney general's office, but notwithstanding I would be willing to accept the recommendation for the appropriation under certain conditions. However, before I could support the proposition those laws which give the governor power to engage special assistants, attorney general and the state indetries to hire lawyers, these laws would have to be repealed. I vote no."

Senate Bill No. 1, reported out for passage by the judiciary committee was passed by unanimous vote. This revises the present laws for disbarment of attorneys in certain cases, grants assistant attorney generals and attorney generals to conclude private legal business after taking office and gives states attorneys the right to appear in defense of criminal cases in other than their own counties. The bill was applied to both Senate Bill No. 1 and Senate Bill No. 6.

CASH AND LOVE GONE

Once Wealthy Man Brings Action Against Girl Wife.

Aged Husband Demands an Account ing for $50,000 Turned Over to Wife and Relatives.

Atlantic City.—Fenilleus and sixty-five years old, William P. Riffe, once a wealthy resident of Uniontown, Pa., appeared before vice chancellor Leaning here in an action he has brought against his thirty-year-old wife and her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mathews, formerly of New York, but for the past year residents of this city. He sues to compel the latter to give an accounting for $50,000 which he turned over to them.

Riffe testified that two years ago Mrs. Mathews showed him the picture of her niece, then seventeen, when he went to her hotel on South Ninth avenue, in search of health. He said that he became enamored of the girl and Mrs. Mathews brought her to the hotel. They became engaged after he had promised to give her $10,000. Shortly afterward they were married. He testified that he gave Mr. and Mrs. Mathews nearly $50,000, with the understanding that the money was to be invested in real estate.

After his money was gone, he charged, his wife sold the furniture he had bought for their home despite his protest. She then gave him $10 of the proceeds in go to his home, he added, and even tried, he swore, to take that away from him before he left.

The defense sought to show that the money had paid for $30,000 worth of clothes for the young wife, an automobile, diamonds and jewelry. Riffe admitted the money lasted only six months. Then, he charged, the Mathews sent him home to Uniontown to raise more funds, but he had been unsuccessful.

He declared that he was forced to leave his wife in March of this year.

COURT O. K.'S HAIR PULLING

Wife Justified in "Remonstrating" With Rival, Massachusetts Judge Rules.

LYNN, Mass.—A hair-pulling match between a wife and her rival woman who is found with the husband is perfectly in order from the judge's viewpoint, according to the ruling of Associate Justice Edward S. O'Brien of the District court here.

He was called upon to render a decision at the trial of Mrs. Lillian Miner, a divorcee, charged with assault with a revolver upon Mrs. Catherine Curtis, the wife of a Boston policeman. Although it was charged that Mrs. Curtis made the first move in the hair-pulling, the justice said:

"I think the wife is justified in remonstrating, even to the extent of pulling hair, and if such a case came before me for trial I should rule in favor of the aggrieved wife."

Love of Music Traps Robber of Poor Box

Philadelphia.—It was his love for music which led to the arrest of Jacob Katz, twenty-four years old. Katz entered the Emanuel Lutheran church here shortly after midnight and found the poor box which he emptied of its contents, $3. Then he found the new organ. Katz had musical talent and he ran his fingers over the keys. Then he became so absorbed in the instrument that he forgot where he was, pulled out the telephone and thundered away. The strains awakened the pastor, Rev. Rudolph Nieder, who lives next door, and he called the police.

LABORER GETS $120,000

Amconda, Mont.—From a laborer's task at the Washoe smelter to the possession of $120,000 was the realization here recently of Claude Sheumaker, who received a telegram from an Eastern broker advising him that he had realized this fortune on the sale of oil stock. Sheumaker immediately drew his earnings, purchased a railroad ticket and started East. Sheumaker conceived the idea of buying oil stock while in the army. While serving overseas with the Twenty-third division he was wounded. His original investment was $300 of back army pay. He intends purchasing a ranch in Oregon, he said.

CHOOSING FRENCH GIRL

Shippey, Missouri poet, left a wife and child in Kansas City when he went to France during the war. There he became infatuated with Madeline Bablin, a French girl. After the war he came to Kansas City, where their son was born. Shippey's wife refused to get a divorce so he could marry the French girl. Now Shippey has abandoned his wife and has fled to Mexico with Madeline.

HARDING WINS IN CUTTING FRILLS

Washington, Jan. 13.—President-elect Harding's suggestion that his inauguration take place on the east portion of the capitol was ratified today by a joint congressional committee in charge of the ceremony.

The "front porch" plan, members said, would be carried out literally, and every possible dollar of expense eliminated. No spectators stands, benches, or even camp stools would be provided.

ROBBY OFFERS VICTIM $10

"You Need It Worse Than I," He Says to Holdup on Rending Man Penniless.

Stenheville, O.—Daniel Cable, a pottery worker, reported to the police here that a robber, who had held him up while he was on his way home in a suburb, offered to give him $10 after the highwayman discovered that he was penniless.

Cable said that the robber leaped upon, overpowered him, and then went through his pockets. Finding no money, Cable said, the highwayman reached into his own pocket, pulled out a roll of bills and offered to give him $10, saying: "Here, brother, you need it worse than I do."

Cable said he was too surprised to accept the money.

MISS STARK TO CALIFORNIA

Home Demonstration Agent for Burleigh county, Miss Elsie Stark, left yesterday for California to remain for some time. Miss Stark resigned from her position in this county two months ago, her resignation to take effect immediately after the close of the Missouri Slope poultry show and child welfare clinic.

During the period of Miss Stark's administration, the home demonstration work of Burleigh county has had a tremendous impetus and it is with the deepest regret that the people of the county learn of Miss Stark's resignation. Professionally, Miss Stark has been all that could be expected of a county officer and, indeed, she exceeded the expectations of the most exacting in her professional duties. Personally, every one knowing Miss Stark considers her a good friend, so genial and wholesome in her personality, and her power for good in the civic life of the county and the city has been most remarkable. The best wishes of the whole community go with Miss Stark and it is the hope of her friends that she may be induced to return to her home state and her native town of Mandan after a winter spent in California.

Miss Stark is one of a party of four leaving for California. Accompanying her are, her mother Mrs. Anna J. Stark, her brother George Stark, and Mrs. George Daley. They go by way of Kansas City, through Texas and New Mexico, they will view the Grand Canyon en route and arrive at San Diego after a pleasantly long trip. Miss Stark has not decided whether or not she will remain in California where a good position is offered her or return to North Dakota to accept a flattering offer in her home state.

OLD FASHIONED QUILTING BEE

Mrs. A. W. Lucas was hostess yesterday at her home at 48 Avenue A West, to a party of twelve friends. The occasion being an old-time quilting party, where the guests came to see the morning and remained for the day. An elaborate one-o'clock luncheon was served the guests, and the hostess was assisted by her eldest daughter, Miss Helen Lucas.

A continuation of the very happy affair is promised at a later date to complete the quilts.

LEGION DANCE

Lloyd Speltz Post of American Legion held their weekly dance last night in their hall in the Hinkley block, and an enthusiastic party of about seventy-five young people were in attendance. They are benefit dances in a way, friends of the Legion men who are not members, being admitted upon recommendation.

HAPPY CLUB AFFAIR

Mother's Day for the Current Events Club, held at the home of Mrs. George A. Welch on Fourth street, was a delightful affair. New York, Jan. 13.—Don't be surprised if you see milady walking down the avenue with a gorgeous bird or a mermaid, adorning the front of her dress!

D. & P. W. CLUB HOSTESSES

The Business and Professional Women of Bismarck have opened their club rooms to the visiting county superintendents of the state, during their stay in the city. The sessions of the superintendents being held in the American Legion hall, it is most fitting that the women's club room be set aside as a harbor for the convenience of the professional people of the state, thirty-one of whom are women. The Commercial club entertained the visitors at a banquet at the Grand Pacific on Friday evening, and in this way two of the civic bodies of the city combine as hosts and hostesses to the guests.

DELIGHTFUL ART EXHIBIT

A group of prints are on exhibition in the American Legion hall during the session of the county superintendents. They are under the supervision of Miss Bertha Palmer, primary specialist for the state department of education, and all those interested in fine prints and colored copies are invited to see the collection. They are sent to the state, primarily for instruction and use of teachers at their various gatherings, and any person wishing to procure a print may order same while the exhibition is on.

McLEAN-BAYLIS NUPTIALS

In the Third United Presbyterian church of Pittsburg, Jan. 8th at 6 o'clock, the marriage of Miss Elizabeth Bayliss, daughter of Mrs. Joseph A. Bayliss, of East End avenue, Beaver, and J. H. A. McLean, son of Captain and Mrs. Alexander E. McLean, of Saint Joe, Mo., took place with Rev. Dr. Hugh B. Speer, pastor of the church, as the officiating clergyman. Attending the couple was a sister of the bride and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. McCurry, of Squirrel Hill, Pittsburg.

The bride was attired in a suit of reindeer duvet, de laune, with hat to match, and her corsage was of bride's roses, showered with sweet peas. Mrs. McCurry wore a gown of blue satin and her corsage was Ophelia roses, showered with sweet peas.

Following the ceremony the bridal party went to the William Penn hotel in Pittsburg for dinner. Later the couple left on a wedding trip, the itinerary of which included New York City, Washington, and other of the important cities of the east. They will return to Beaver for a short time and then take up their abode in Saint Joe, Mo.

The bride is a newspaper woman of unusual capabilities. She began her newspaper career as society editor of the Daily Times, and went from Beaver to Bismarck, N. D., where she held a similar position for two and one-half years with the Bismarck Tribune. Upon her return to Beaver she was induced again to take up her abode with the Daily Times, leaving last fall to take a post with the Elgin (Ill.) Courier, where she did special assignment work. Her husband is a business man of Saint Joe, Mo., being actively associated with his father in the wholesale gravel and sand business.—Beaver, Pa., Times.

The students and teachers of the college came in a body and presented an impressive sight as they filed into the church filling a large section of the building. LITTLE WRAP

FOR TRIP TO

SUNNY SOUTH

BY CORA MOORE.

New York's Fashion Authority New York (Special by Mail)—Just "little wrap" is this one of taffeta trimmed with quillings of velvet ribbon, but it is the very epitome of charm. It is one of the costumes in that merry musical comedy at the Selwyn Theatre, "Tickle Me," and just the thing to be included in the outfit for the southland.

As for that, the model would be just as effective in a soft chiffon velvet or silk or wool duvety with the quillings, say, of moire ribbon, or, if preferred, narrow fur bands might be substituted.

The "Tickle Me" model is in one of those irresistible two-tone taffetas, orchid and red, and each row of quillings is put on with a fine taffeta-covered cord. Its lining is a heavy silver gray chiffon cloth closely shirred on cords and laid over a flesh-toned mesh which serves as an underlining.

Business College long before he had come to this city, and the things he heard were such that any president of a business college would be glad to have them said about his school.

The pastor also expressed his appreciation of the splendid response of the school to his invitation.

The Evangelist preached on "The Leprosy of Sin and its Healing," using the healing of Naaman the Syrian as a basis for his sermon. His text is found in 2 Kings 5:14. His sermon was one of the most powerful he has preached during the campaign and held the audience spellbound from the start.

Graphic Picture

He gave a graphic picture of the hopeless condition of the leper, and how he was compelled, upon meeting people, to cry out, "Unclean, unclean!" He said, "What would this world be like if every man who is a moral leper, were compelled every time he met a pure woman, cry out, 'Unclean, unclean!'"

"Until you are willing to forsake all sin, God cannot do anything for you," said the evangelist. "What God demands of you is that you give up power to do." All Naaman lost in the river Jordan was his sin. All you will lose in coming to Jesus Christ is your sin. Come to Him now."

This evening the evangelist will speak on the subject, "Complete in Christ." This is one of his strongest messages and no one should miss hearing it.

More Men Than Women
Have Appendicitis

Medical reports show men are more subject to appendicitis although many sudden cases occur among women. It is guarded against by preventing intestinal infection. The intestinal antiseptic, Adler-Ka, acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel, removing all foul decaying matter which might cause infection. It brings out matter you never thought was in your system and which may have been poisoning you for months. Adler-Ka is EXCELLENT for gas on the stomach. Jos. Braslow, advt.

NERVOUS, IRRITABLE,
AILING WOMEN

Mrs. Britten Tells How She Was Restored To Health After Suffering for More Than A Year.

Another Triumph for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Dimondale, Mich.—"I had inflammation and a displacement and weakness, and it had been neglected so long that it caused great pain, and this affected my mind and nerves so that I was very irritable. I had severe pains every month, so that I was often obliged to lie in bed for two days at a time. I suffered for more than a year before my friends said, 'Why don't you try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?' So I purchased one bottle after another until I had taken ten bottles, then Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I received so much benefit from this treatment that I am now able to do my own work."—Mrs. W. D. Britten, R. No. 2, Dimondale, Mich.

Another Michigan Woman says:

"I was bothered for a long time with female troubles and was so nervous I felt almost afraid at times. I also had a pain in my right side and was certainly in a bad way. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has relieved me of these nervous feelings and pains and I am much better in every way. I don't know just how many bottles I have taken, but I took it for nearly a year and it has done me a world of good."—Mrs. Jessie GRANGER, R. No. 3, Box 51, Kalamazoo, Michigan.

Good health is a woman's greatest asset. With it she may be the inspiration of her husband, a happy mother, and the life of the home. Without it she suffers agonies herself, household duties are a burden, and her family is made miserable by her condition.

Is it any wonder that these women were nervous and irritable after suffering so long from such deranged conditions? Such ailments act directly upon the nerves, and it has been said that a large percentage of nervous prostration, nervous dependency, "the blues," and nervous irritability of women arise from some derangement of the female organism.

If women who are in this condition would only profit by the experience of others and take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once, much suffering and unhappiness would be averted, as everyone knows a nervous, irritable, ailing mother makes the home unhappy and her condition irritates both husband and children.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women" will be sent to you free upon request. Write to The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., U.S.A.

The book contains valuable information.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1878)

A NEEDED CHANGE

One of the best and most important legislative acts is that creating a state budget board, but there are certain defects in the present law that should be corrected at this session.

These relate chiefly to the time given the board for collecting the data and compiling its report. Sufficient time should be allotted the members of this board to ascertain the needs of the various departments and institutions and the time for filing the report should be so fixed that every member-elect of the legislature could have a copy either upon his arrival or a week or two before the session convened.

No one is to blame for the present condition. The law gives too little time for the board to do good constructive work. It is not a small task that confronts the budget board every two years and provision should be made making it mandatory for all department heads to have their estimates in early. Advance the first meeting of the board and then fix the limit for the filing of the printed report about December 15 preceding each session.

These changes, the Tribune believes, would be welcomed by every state officer and certainly the legislators would favor a system that would cut the usual log rolling over appropriations to a minimum.

"TEXAS BILL" DID IT

When somebody meaningfully tells you that—"A fellow can't work up to the high spots any more; the day for the small beginning is past, and a poor man's son is farther than ever from opportunity."

Please tell this pessimistic individual about "Texas Bill" Cunningham.

Texas Bill won almost every honor Dartmouth college had to offer. This in the class room as well as on the campus and field.

Did Texas Bill get away to a fine start? He did NOT.

Texas Bill entered college without a dollar in his pocket. He worked his way through, supporting himself and his mother.

Surely what Texas Bill could do in the matter of getting a college education other young fellows can do. Of course they can. All they need is Texas Bill's determination to have such an education.

BILLION DOLLARS FOR ROADS

Not every time can you kill two birds with one stone. And now there is need to kill two birds, and stones are scarce.

The "birds" are bad roads and unemployment. "One billion dollars has been made available for road work in 1921," says the American Road Builders' Association, which has called a national gathering of good roads advocates to be held in Chicago early in February.

The association is composed of government, state, county, and city highway officials, as well as engineers, contractors, road users and manufacturers of road-building machinery and materials. The Chicago meeting is to tackle the road problem from many angles, including:

Improved methods in road building and maintenance, the need for better highways as railroad feeders, road bonds, powers and duties of highway officials and the use of convict labor on the roads. Types and foundation of roads, materials, machinery, limitation and regulation of traffic, financing local contractors, the use of trucks, tractors and trailers, all these matters will come up for discussion.

According to officers of the association $540,800,000 has been appropriated for road work in 16 states alone. There is available $160,000,000 through federal aid, and $276,200,000 has been provided through direct levies by states and counties. During the year it is probable that more money will be available for road work in the year. The total will be well over a billion dollars.

There is no denying the need for better roads, miles and miles of them, in every state. Not since before the war has there been a time when as many thousands of unemployed workers were available for road work. A billion dollars, to begin with, will "kill" many miles of bad roads, and many thousands of unemployment cases. It does both at the same time.

But the underlying thought, and the highest goal, at that congress should not be providing employment for workers, not a market for materials; it should be GOOD roads where they are needed MOST. Good roads are only GOOD roads if they are built to bear a traffic of many years. Also they must be built efficiently, which is to say, without mixing either labor or materials with graft. This latter is a topic the congress may well include in its discussions.

MADNESS OF MAN

Sir Robert Armstrong-Jones, noted British mental expert, has stirred up quite a bit of argument by asserting that "there are plenty of people who ought to be certified as insane whose conduct is tolerated. Many people ought to be in asylums who are not there."

Really there is little to be worried about, despite the avalanche of opinion that the world is headed for madness because of the hurry man has gotten into.

Man has been mad quite a few years. Three centuries before the birth of Christ Aristotle learned that "no excellent soul is exempt from a mixture of madness." Something like 400 years later Horace said to a neighbor, "He appears mad indeed but to a few, because the majority is infected with the same disease." More than 17 centuries later Dr. Johnson discovered that "Many a man is mad and goes through life without having it perceived."

MONEYLESS RUSSIA

Again it has been announced that Russia is going onto a moneyless basis. The soviet government, dispatches indicate, is about ready for the experiment, although, in truth the Bolsheviks for some months have been on or near, a no-money basis by having too much money. This may seem contradictory. It is a fact. Too much currency is next door to no currency other than the product of toil, such currency as the stone age man probably had, and which savages of modern times have had.

By printing rubles ceaselessly the Bolsheviks made the ruble worth next to nothing. By not printing them at all the Bolsheviks now does little toward destroying their value. The ruble is a ruble no longer. One might as well have no rubles as to have to give a handful of them in exchange for a pinch of salt.

Abolishing money long has been a pretty dream of a certain brand of idealists. And that is all it is; a dream. It will remain that until civilization slips back to the age where it is possible to trade the fur one traps for flour another grinds, the wood one chops for a coat another weaves.

EDITORIAL REVIEW

Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of The Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of important issues which are being discussed in the press of the day.

A DANIEL COME TO JUDGMENT

The Nonpartisan upheaval in North Dakota several years ago brought into public notice several quaint characters, a few of them of marked ability. Of these latter is Justice J. E. Robinson, a member of the supreme court of that state. Justice Robinson, for years a tax-title lawyer in Fargo, was probably selected by the Townleyites because of his local reputation for contempt of traditional methods in the practice of law and the faculty of expressing his independence in picturesque language.

These qualities have lost nothing since his elevation to the bench. In fact they have developed to a point that has occasionally attracted national attention among lawyers and several times has proved a thorn in the flesh of the Townley leaders particularly when certain fundamental property rights were involved and Justice Robinson declined to sanction Socialistic assaults upon them. Nothing, perhaps, better illustrates the justice's disregard of orthodox ethics than his practice of giving a weekly letter to the press. These letters in the frankest language discuss the courts and some of the important cases that come before him as a supreme court justice. The idea running through them all, however, is that the courts are for the people, that the laws should be simplified and litigation made less expensive.

In a recent letter to the Bismarck Tribune, he says: "In time, in money and in vexation the administration of justice does cost too much. It is a fearful tax. There is nothing so expensive. The trial of actions does often impose on taxpayers and suitors a burden that is grievous to be borne. The record is swollen, the trial delayed and made doubly expensive by improper motions, questions, objections and exceptions. It is high time for the courts and the lawyers to ponder on the words of Christ and to put the practice of the law on a higher plane. The lawyers and the courts are responsible for a good share of the high taxes. In the administration of justice there is no proper regard for economy."

Justice Robinson may have his vagaries but it is also evident that he has considerable common sense. —Duluth Herald.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

"The Twins Are Rescued." When Nancy and Nick awoke and discovered that the Eskimo's hut had disappeared and with it the good fellow who had called himself Ishtu.

The children made out a dark line coming toward them—Eskimo dogs drawing a sled.

They missed the carved box that held all their charms. "It wasn't Ishtu at all," declared Nick, blowing upon his cold fingers. He and Nancy were out quite in the middle of a bare, snow field. "You know, near the South Pole." It must have been that wicked old Hobadil Jinn who is trying to prevent us from going any further on our journey. If we only had our shoes we could wish ourselves into a warmer place, but they are gone too. Suddenly they heard a dog bark, then another and another. "Oh, Nick, do you know he's got his dogs on us?" cried Nancy fearfully. "But Nick spoke up with more bravado than he felt. 'Pooh! Not that's a friendly bark and I'm going to whistle.'" draw nearer, and after a while they were able to discern half a dozen Eskimo dogs drawing a sled. A man was behind the sled guiding it. "Hello!" called Nick. "Are you looking for us? Here we are." The man answered something, but what it was the children could not understand. "Don't you see? We've lost our language charm," Nick said to Nancy. "The bit of pink silk out of the mushroom's hat that the Fairy Queen gave us was in the carved box. We shall never be able to understand anybody in strange lands until we find it." But the man was kind and lifted the kiddies into his sled, and took them to his house not far away. It was the real Ishtu and the hut was the one marked on the last map.

SUPREME COURT

From Ward County
C. B. Bach, as Guardian of the person and estate of Arlon Rotluk, Plaintiff-Respondent.

Sam Harchenko and Kosmo Harchenko, Defendants-Appellants. (Syllabus)

1. The testimony of a witness, then under guardianship as insane, may disclose his competency as a witness. 2. The discretion of the trial court in denying a new trial on the grounds of surprise because witness has testified differently at the trial than at another hearing will not be disturbed where the party claiming the surprise, and having knowledge at the trial of the discrepancy in the testimony, and a witness then available to show such discrepancy, did not call such matter to the attention of the trial court or make a motion for continuance.

3. In an action for assault and battery it is held, that the trial court did not err in receiving the testimony of the plaintiff then under guardianship as an insane person, in refusing to grant a new trial upon grounds of surprise by reason of the plaintiff and his son testifying differently upon the trial than upon a former preliminary hearing, and further, that a fair trial was had and instructions properly given.

Action for assault and battery in District Court, Ward County, Fisk, J. From an order denying new trial the defendants have appealed.

Opinion of the court by Bronson, J. Grace, J. concurs in result. John J. Coyle, Minot, N. D., attorney for appellant. Greenleaf & Woolledge, Minot, N. D., attorneys for respondent.

know a charming old lady who passed her eighty-third birthday who does not look a day older than fifty—and why? Simply because she has refused to allow herself to grow old. She is the constant companion of her grandchildren and enters into their pastimes and social gatherings with the zest and understanding of a girl of their own age. And in doing so she unconsciously imbues the spirit of youth which is reflected in her physical and mental condition. I truly believe that she will live to be well over a hundred."

Legislative Notes

William Rako, chief game warden of the Second district, is around camp, contending to learn what the sentiment is in regard to game laws. He says that a lot of people all over the state want the old bird dog back, and a bill may be introduced providing for this.

Norbert O'Leary, at one time private secretary to A. C. Townley, has been appointed court stenographer in the Fifth judicial district, to serve under Judge Moelling, of Williston. Mr. O'Leary was in Bismarck the first few days of the legislative session.

No one has yet introduced a civil service bill at this session of the legislature. One usually is dumped into the hopper—where it stays. The Nonpartisan league advocated civil service rules for state employees in 1915 and 1916. Wisconsin probably has the most rigid civil service bill for employees of any state.

G. N. Keniston, secretary of the Commercial club, is quite sure that Bismarck people want to do everything possible to make the stay of visitors comfortable while in the city. In response to an appeal to citizens to throw open their homes to visitors, when hotels are crowded, which was printed in The Tribune, many citizens called the club, phone 813, and registered their names.

The senate received the biennial report of the board of pardons. The report showed that during 1920 there were 27 pardons granted, two conditional pardons granted, one conditional release granted, 38 commutations of sentence given, 5 indeterminate sentences changed, and citizenship was restored to 16. Twenty-seven pardons were granted in 1919.

HOME-MADE COSMETICS

SO MANY very particular women choose to make their own cosmetics that the making has become almost a fad. The woman who can make her own creams knows them to be pure, and knows she can get three times the quality and quantity for less than the price of the purchased article.

Cold creams are easily made. If one has a good recipe. The oils and waxes are melted slowly in a double boiler, the waters added slowly and the whole beaten and beaten as it cools, until a light frothy cream results. Powders are more difficult to make. A never advise their manufacture at home. It is cheaper to purchase.

If You Make Your Own Cosmetics You Know Their Quality.

chase unscented rice powder, a large quantity of which can be bought for half a dollar, and to perfume or tint this at home. Bleaches are best made at home, hair tonics mixed by a good druggist, according to prescription.

Then one can purchase artistic jars and bottles and fill these with the preparations, the jars being an ornament to the dressing table, not a detriment, as most purchased affairs are. Then, too, one can buy a little of a desired expensive perfume, and use it for scenting all one's toilet requisites. And one can choose some distinctive scent, and keep to it, instead of mixing several odors into one indiscriminate combination.

A good hair tonic, a good cream, glycerine and rose water, face and talcum powder, vaseline for nails and eyebrows, and a nail polish are all a woman really needs, ordinarily.

SISLER IS KING OF PRINT SHOP, TOO

Brown star wants to lead the printing league in hitting as well as baseball this year.

Likes Business Life Just as Well as Baseball—Wants to Lead

St. Louis, Jan. 13.—George Sisler is wearing the same sized hat he wore before he succeeded to Ty Cobb's batting throne.

The only new thing about the batting king is that he's gone into the printing business here.

Sisler is a provident youth. He is looking ahead to the time when he won't be able to hit 'em at a 407 clip.

That may be a long while. But George isn't taking any chances.

He owns the controlling stock in the print shop and is head of it.

"I'm just thinking about two things right now," he says.

"One is how I can build up this business, the other—how big a success I can make of baseball next season."

"When Sisler graduated from the University of Michigan he started out as a civil engineer.

"That didn't mix well with baseball," says George. "You can't follow baseball for over half the year and make a success of engineering."

"I tried it and found out."

"Then I got into this business. It's going to work fine with my baseball."

Wants to Lead

"I find, too, that I like it almost as well as I do baseball."

"Business attracts me. You have to fight the same as when your team is hot after the pennant."

"The same qualities bring success in both."

"I guess I'll keep on playing baseball as long as my club and the fans are pleased with my work."

"It's a game well worth giving your best to. I hope to be a leader in this printing line some day, too, so I'll have something to fall back on."

Sisler is the ultra-modern edition baseball player.

Judging by old time standards he is about everything which the old boys were not, so far as appearance, action and thought go.

His university training shows distinctly in his making.

Best Eyes

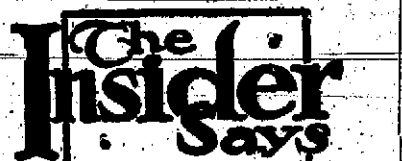

On the diamond he moves so gracefully that at first sight he disappoints. He fields his position with such ease that hard changes appear easy when he handles them.

"His eyes—they're the best lookers in the business right now. He was the only .400 hitter of the majors in 1920."

Good eyes, quick thinking, speed in going down, general athletic prowess and a knack of having given him Ty Cobb's throne.

The long reign of the Georgia Peach has been turned over to the Peachy George.

And a finer chap than the Brown star first-sacker couldn't have won the greatest honor in baseballdom.

The Magnate Says

I never played a game of ball nor did I ever cavort on grid, or field, in cage or ring, or on a tennis court.

I do not know a thing about the game, yet, all I know is how to watch the turnstile click and count the piled-up dough.

But though I do not know baseball, you will wonder when it comes to staging petty scraps.

Maybe Messrs. Ruppert, Johnson, Comiskey and the other American League factionists figure that, having granted Judge Landis a salary of $50,000, they'd better get busy and make him earn it.

Their idea of making him earn it is to revive all the back-biting, rancor and hatred of the last few years, dress them up with some new billingsgate and "fishwives" invective, put 'em on a platter and present 'em to the new baseball commissioner.

One is inclined to wonder what will happen.

Judge Landis' high opinion of baseball has been obtained from the outside as an observer. He likes the game as a sport and he's a real dyed-in-the-wool fan.

What impression of baseball will the judge get from observation on the inside?

Not altogether a good one, judging by the midwinter antics of the warring factions.

"Pop" Anson is one of the first prophets to come forward with the thought that the judge won't continue very long as a baseball head.

Judge Landis may be surprised at the type of some of the men he will meet on the "inside" of baseball. Not pleasantly surprised, but unpleasantly astonished that so delightful and interesting a pastime can harbor such a bunch of petty squabblers!

Will Judge Landis undertake to settle the back-fence bickering of the rival American League clans?

It is to be hoped that he finds a way to make the magnates forget their quarrels instead of becoming disgusted with the whole mess and quitting his job.

It's impossible for one to decide the merits of either side in the American League trouble. Probably both sides are wrong. It's of no great importance, anyhow.

The best way to fix things up is to have both clans keep silent for an extended period, forget the past and try to help Judge Landis put the game on a solid footing.

"Baseball magnates are like a lot of women—always gadding about and finding fault with everything," says Pop.

Some of the moguls are bound to be crying all the time. They choose Landis to drive their tears, but will they let him?

Anson's prediction: "The judge will give them up as an impossible bunch when he really finds them out."

TAXPAYERS TO GIVE MILLION

Visitors Are Expected to Leave $10,000,000 in Washington

Washington, Jan. 12.—One million dollars.

That's the best estimate of what the Harding inauguration will cost the taxpayers.

"They'll pay it through the federal government or through the states."

In addition it's estimated that there'll be 100,000 visitors at the inauguration, who'll spend an average of $100 each, making a total of $10,000,000.

So Harding's inauguration will be by far the costliest in history.

Here is the approximate way the expenses are divided:

FEDERAL
Inaugural stand and extra police	$50,000
Comfort stations, information booths, guards	80,000
Annapolis midshipmen	25,000
West Point cadets	27,000
Other army units	100,000
Cost of preparing Pension Office for hall including interference with business	100,000

STATES
Thirty Republican governors and staffs	$300,000
National guardmen from 20 states	400,000

INDIVIDUALS
100,000 visitors spending average $100	$10,000,000

To date only $50,000 has been appropriated by Congress, but that is only the starter.

In many states Legislatures will be asked to provide special appropriations.

The 100,000 visitors—many of whom will spend little, the others will spend into the tens of thousands—will all feel the pressure of inauguration tariffs, for prices of everything from ham sandwiches to hotel suites will be greatly boosted.

But they'll get some personal satisfaction out of it.

Won't Have Look-In

The million will be taxed citizens who won't have a look-in.

That's why certain senators are kicking, claiming the whole job of starting the new president off right could be done at a cost of $10,000 for a ceremony at the capitol.

According to a report that the $125,000 contributed by prominent Washington citizens to the inaugural committee, is a gift. It is merely a guarantee fund, and they expect to get it all back from the sale of parade seats and tickets to the inaugural ball.

Spain has more than a million women farm workers.

ANNE SAVES "SIAMESE TWIN"

Unique Operation is Performed on Sixteen-Day-Old Infant in Toronto Hospital.

Toronto, Ont.—Smuggled down in a box in St. Michael's hospital lies a little maiden who has set the medical world talking.

"Anne," as the nurses call her, though it's only two names, is blessedly unconscious of the stir she is creating. For this is but her nineteenth day of birth.

The other day she underwent a unique operation successfully. For Anne should have been born twins. The other, however, didn't grow, but formed a mass of bone, cartilage and muscle at the base of the living child's spine. The operation would have been fatal, so for 10 days Anne and the "parasite," as physicians term it, grew together, for both seemed alive.

Consequently the mother urged operation and eventually fate cast the die for signs of mortification set in, and Dr. Gordon Silverthorn operated. Parasite and bone growth were removed, the child's skin was drawn up and saved almost like a pair of trousers, and ten minutes after she came out from the anaesthetic she was feeling peacefully. Medical men say she is doing wonderfully.

Look, Drug Store, President, Calamity and Customer in State and Tell Them How to Succeed.

New York.—Two bandits who have been daylight-robbing a drug store in Central Park West, looking the part of a salesman and a customer in the store when they held in an automobile, have this morning free advice while they rot in jail.

"Producing a revolver and 'break' ing in to show that it was loaded with real bullets, our bandit got the salesman into a state of mind in which he unburdened his wrist watch for the convenience of the robbers."

Inspecting this victim's possession, the robber found a gold chain.

"We will use a million man," quoth the bandit.

"Yes, I belong to a union at Binghams," replied the salesman.

"Do you make much money?"

"No, I earn very little."

"Then why don't you get into this business?" asked the bandit. "It's easy work and profitable."

To prove his assertion he relieved the man of their valuables and $200.

On the way out the robbers informed a woman who was about to enter that the store was closed for the remainder of the day.

ARMS SMUGGLED TO ITALY

From Newspaper Believes They Were Intended for the Tyrolese Militia.

Rome.—The Gloriate d'Italia has been conducting an inquiry concerning a sealed truck sent from Berlin to Rome, containing, according to the German papers, books and diplomatic documents, belonging to the Italian embassy in Berlin. The truck contained 18 cases addressed to the military of war division of the general staff, and here instructions that they be kept in the railway station in Rome without being opened to await a special envoy from the war ministry.

The newspaper asserts that evidently by this means it was expected the truck would pass the Italian frontier at Kufstein, in the Tyrol, without customs examination, but the Italian officials insisted on opening the cases and found they contained machine guns, cannon, revolvers and "field" glasses.

The Gloriate d'Italia came to the conclusion that the arms were destined for the Tyrolese militia, which it says are well known for their anti-Italian feelings.

Armless Mother Made All Her Baby's Clothes

Although she has no arms, Mrs. J. C. Teagarden of Denver, Colo., is able to give her baby the same care that other mothers give and every bit of clothing the baby wears was made by the mother. Physicians and nurses at the hospital where the stork brought little Delphia May were amazed at the facility with which Mrs. Teagarden, born with no arms, cared for her baby, using teeth, feet and shoulders.

Mrs. Teagarden keeps her own house, sews, cooks and makes the beds, and she is able to comb her own hair with a comb held in her teeth. Delphia May is a normal child.

Man May Write His Name

Cincinnati.—Joseph D. Anglibert, contractor, has a painter who found a drink when sent to town. Becoming very thirsty, the painter sat down at the corner of Fifth and Walnut streets. His hat slipped off and fell to his knees and when he was awakened by a policeman the painter found $1.00 in his hat.

What Would He Do With a Million?

Indianapolis.—Arthur C. Newby, who recently inherited a 140-acre farm and $1,000 worth of personal property left by two uncles of Mooreville, has presented the entire estate to the town of Mooreville, the income of which is to be used to erect a memorial to the two uncles.

Her Sinking Room

Are you aware that "my lady" refers to her honor for the purpose of sinking? The word "sinking" is derived from the French "sinker"—to pour, or to be silly; so that its real meaning is "a place in which to sink."

U. S. NAVY BEST FED ANYWHERE

Rations Are So Good That Athletic Training Tables Are Barred

WARSHIPS ARE NOT SO GOOD

Seafaring Conditions of the Fleet Have Undergone Little Improvement Since the War, Says Bureau Chief

Washington.—Main still may be made that the American navy is the best fed body of men in the world. Samuel McGowan, paymaster general of the navy, declared in his annual report, in support of his statement, Rear Admiral McGowan cites the following order issued by Admiral William S. Benson, commander of the Atlantic fleet:

Training Tables Barred.

"Due to general excellence of present navy rations and living conditions on board ships of the fleet, training tables for athletic events are considered unnecessary and are therefore forbidden."

Surplus provisions left over after giving the warlike fleet, Admiral McGowan said, have been disposed of at reasonable prices. He added that new stocks of the current season's pack were being obtained in sufficient quantities to meet the estimated requirements of the coming year.

Increases in the prices of foodstuffs during the year were reflected in the cost of the navy ration, which rose to an average of 70.5 cents, as compared with 66.7 cents in 1919 and a prewar average of around 37 cents.

Admiral McGowan asserted that naval rations showed that the navy sustained 800,000 troops on route to France and 1,000,000 returning troops, in connection with the wartime work of the subsistence branch, he said.

"Despite the scarcity of certain articles of food and the constant and persistent pressure from outside, amounting in effect to actual propaganda for relaxation of the rigidity of the navy's specifications, especially on meats, no such thing was done, and the standard of subsistence was never lowered."

Ship Not So Good

The mechanical condition of America's fleet has undergone little improvement since the termination of the war, and the engineer performance of the individual ships "has not been satisfactory," Rear Admiral Graham, chief of the Bureau of engineering, says in his annual report.

SAYS BREED SKUNKS FOR FUR

United States Department of Agriculture: Bats, Bees, Birds, and Farming

Washington.—Breeding of skunks as a means of stabilizing the "depressed fur market" is the latest suggestion of the Department of Agriculture.

Despite all the harsh things that have been said about this lowly animal the department describes him as "a hardy, wild, animal friend the farmer has."

The skunk—the announcement says, can be used for destroying mice, grasshoppers, crickets and white grubs, at the same time furnishing the farmer from $50 to $100 worth of fur a year.

All that is required of the farmer, the circular says, is that he "respect the animal's den, keep his poultry in skunk-proof yards, kill him out of doors for every fall and be careful when he meets them in the evening."

FINDS "LOST" DIAMOND MINES

Mexico City Stirred by Claims of Geologist Who Made Tour of Exploration.

Mexico City.—The legendary diamond mines in the state of Guerrero, which, ever since the days of Emperor Iturbide, have been sought for by the curious, are the subject of animated discussion here.

A well-known Mexican geologist recently returned from an exploration tour and asserted he had located the lost mines. Exploring parties are now being organized.

General Guerrero, after whom the state was named, is credited with having discovered the diamonds more than one hundred years ago, presenting to Emperor Iturbide numerous gems of immense value. The general died, however, without disclosing the location of the treasure.

MARKS GERMAN HIGH TIDE

Memorandum Unveiled Last Year, Filled Miles From Paris, Where Enemy Was Halting

Senlis, France.—In the hamlet of Senlis, a few kilometers south of here on the road to Paris, an obelisk some 12 feet high, surmounted by a statue of a French soldier, has just been unveiled. It marks the exact spot where, on September 7, 1914, the advance guard of the army of Gen. von Kluck was brought to halt. A little less than 15 miles from Paris.

A Sacrifice of Sunlight

BUTCHER HEIR TO FORTUNE

Estate Worth at Least $1,000,000 Is Left to Oregon Man by Uncle

La Grande, Ore.—Jack O'Neill, a butcher in this city, and well-known throughout eastern Oregon as a professional wrestler, has inherited a big estate in Michigan, and letters written to his friends here indicated that his property was worth at least $1,000,000 and perhaps more.

O'Neill received word about ten days ago that his uncle, "Tax-Tite" O'Neill of Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., had died. He went to the funeral and to his surprise he learned after the service that his uncle had left all his property to him.

O'Neill has written to friends here saying that his uncle's estate included thousands of acres of valuable land and that the elder O'Neill had also acquired title to a narrow channel of water used as a shortcut by the Lake Michigan steamers. The uncle had installed a tollgate at the entrance to the channel and collected toll from each boat.

"Spending a million wouldn't worry me any now," O'Neill wrote.

O'Neill was employed in Albert Krause's butcher shop here, and also worked for Fred Black, a butcher, in Condon, Ore., in which city Mr. O'Neill is well acquainted. He had wrestled in various parts of the state, and was well known to the fans.

WEALTH LEFT TO JANITOR

Will Continue Washing Windows and Sweeping Floors Despite $250,000 Legacy

Malden, Mass.—William R. Hanson, a janitor, was telling fellow employees at a drug store here what he would do with the $250,000 that Charles Garland of Buzzard's Bay has refused, when a postman gave him a letter that told him he was heir to about $250,000. He will accept the money, he said, unlike Garland, but he will stay at his work of washing windows and sweeping floors so that he will have something to do.

Between then he intends to smoke good cigars and have an automobile to take him out in the country for week-ends. The estate, according to Hanson, was that of James Moore, an uncle who died several years ago, leaving the property in trust for the use of his wife with instructions that at her death it should be divided among seven relatives, one of whom was Hanson.

Mrs. Moore died recently and the estate which had been swollen to nearly $2,000,000 by wartime investment is about to be divided, the letter said.

DANCES SHOCK WARREN, OHIO

Mayer Orders Police to Prevent Kissing and Hugging in Public Places

Warren, O.—Declaring some of the scenes at public dances are not merely improper, but shockingly immoral, Mayor J. D. McBride issued an order to Chief of Police Gilles to have officers keep an eye on such affairs and to arrest any persons who step beyond the bounds of what they could expect.

The mayor says he has information that young men kiss their dancing partners without any pretense of concealment; that men also hold girls in so close an embrace as would bring swift punishment from fathers if they were present. The mayor also says he has been told couples remain at one spot on the floor for several minutes, diverting their whole attention to "an enthusiastic hug."

It is intimated that young women, especially those given to décollete dresses, are regarded as almost as culpable as their partners, and that in the matter of arrests no distinction will be made.

Pet Rabbit Vanquished Three Cats in Battle

Having earned the right to hang the scalp of three cats at the door of its hutch, a pet rabbit, Byng, owned by Mrs. Ella Fields of Oceanport, N. J., is now held in deadly fear by the feline members of the neighborhood.

Cats have killed hundreds of young rabbits in that section each year, but war-grizzled "toms" who picked out Byng as a prospective dinner have done so to their sorrow. Byng has a powerful kick and he literally kicked his would-be assailants to death.

Girl at Lion on Helms

Pendleton, Ore.—Word that $17,000 had been left her in the will of an uncle who died recently, at Oklahoma City was received the other day by Miss Beattie Dewitt, who is employed as a weaver at the Pendleton Woolen mills. Miss Dewitt has been an orphan for several years. She will continue her work in the mills, she says, until after the first of the year, when she will depart for the East to settle the estate.

FRANCE FREE OF BOLSHEVIK TAIN

American Relief Steadies People in Devastated Areas, Says Noted Writer.

BANGS MAKES OBSERVATIONS

Declares Aid Must Be Continued to Restore Sufferers to Full Vigor—Hope, Not Despair, in Their Hearts

New York.—Bolshevism will never take root in the miles of ruins along the Aisne as long as the morale of the French is kept high while the people are rebuilding and repainting, asserts John Kendrick Bangs. It is better to build up a human soul than to restore a ruined chateau, the well-known writer and lecturer emphasizes.

Speaking from observations made in two trips of inspection through the regions which remain almost as wrecked and desolated as the Germans left them, he declares the work done by the American Committee for Devastated France to be most important in steadying the population during the reconstruction period.

Fears Would Be Allevied

"In restless times like these," said Mr. Bangs, "when the great tides of Bolshevism are being reared everywhere to frighten the timid into all sorts of compromises with conscience, I sometimes wish that every influential factor in America could be transported to Europe to see for themselves exactly how matters stand over there. I think a great many of their fears would be alleviated, and that they would find that Bolshevism is to be apprehended only where there exist no standards of any sort by which the poor and ignorant can measure its shortcomings."

"That it should succeed in Russia is easily accounted for by the utter illiteracy of over 90 per cent of the population."

"If there were any real fear of Bolshevism temporarily triumphant outside of Russia we might with greater reason look for it in countries as devastated by war as to leave their people in a state of hopeless despair, and it is to the relief of those, rather than to that of the uncared, that we should turn our attention, carrying to them not only material relief, but that moral support for which civilization is supposed to stand."

"I must admit that as I traversed the devastated regions of France and Belgium in my two visits to the war area, and looked upon the ruins there, and realized the full measure of the suffering inflicted upon millions of innocent people by the wild forays of the Hun, it seemed to me that any one of those millions of sufferers would be perfectly justified in turning away from old systems, and trying anything new that came along, no matter how idiotic or insane it might be, so long as it promised something different from that which was."

No Such Weakness There

"Had I been one of those returning refugees into any one of the hundred and more villages cared for by the American Committee for Devastated France, for instance, I am not sure that I should not have hoisted the red flag, not that I believed in any of the social absurdities for which it stands, but that it had the virtue at least of being different from the one I had used to reverence. But to my amazement I found no trace of any such weakness in the hearts of those good people in the department of the Aisne."

"They looked with cold, dumb grief upon the wreckage that had once been home, but the flag they raised above them was not the red flag of despair, but the tri-color of hope, and I am proud to say that in one corner of it was a blue field holding 48 stars. They knew that that flag had waved gallantly at Cantigny, at Chateau-Thierry, at St. Mihiel, and in the Argonne and that there it had meant force, but here it stood for sympathy and moral support, and it held them proof against any despairing urge of resentment against a civilization that had superficially seemed to fall them. Indeed it was proof that that civilization was going to see them safely through the charred aftermath of war."

Think Monkey Stole Diamond

St. Louis, Mo.—Baffled by a wave of robberies and pocket pickings, the police have turned their attention to the Forest Park zoo in the hope of solving at least one light-fingered misappropriation. The quest began with a search of the monkey cages on the theory that an $800 diamond pin was taken from Mrs. Clifford C. Fox as she strolled through the zoo on a Sunday afternoon. Park police believe one of the monkeys, attracted by the sparkler, reached through the bars of his cage and "lifted" the pin as Mrs. Fox strolled past.

In Marriage They Are Not Divided

Cincinnati, O.—When Oscar Hethchen, Jr., and his sister, Miss Elida Hethchen, participate in a double wedding, they will remain together, as both plan to live in the same house. They met their sweethearts at the same time, proposals were made simultaneously, their engagements were announced together, and now after being married at the same time they will share a double house.

Putting on Gloves

The correct way to put on silk gloves is to work each finger and the thumb down separately. The gloves should never be forced down by the fingers of the other hand into the crotch of the fingers.
